WEATHER.

U. S. Department of Agriculture,
Weather Bureau.

The storm central over northern Minnesota has increased rapidly in energy and magnitude, and is now central over the upper portion of Michigan. This storm has caused the pressure to fall rapidly over the entire eastern portion of the country. The storm is moving northeastward, and will be central over the St. Lawrence valley by to-morrow. It has and will continue to cause high winds and gales all over the lakes.

The high area of pressure has advanced from the extreme northwest to the Dakotas, and as it advances eastward will cause clearing and cooler weather over the entire lake region.

During the past 24 hours light showers have been reported from the northern portion of the country, elsewhere the weather has continued fair. Generally cloudy weather prevails over the entire lake region, and showers are probable. In all parts of the country it is fair and will continue so.

The temperature has risen over the eastern half, and fallen over the western half of the country. It will fall during the next 36 hours over the east, and rise slightly in the west.

Local forecast for Toledo and vicinity: On Friday, fair, followed by rain to-night, slightly warmer. On Saturday, clearing and cooler weather.

DYNAMITE.

Attempt to Blow Up Non-Union Men.

Great Excitement for a Time in Homestead.

Building Badly Damaged by the Explosive,

But Fortunately Nobody Was Seriously Hurt.

The Place Surrounded by Officers and Efforts Being Made to Arrest the Perpetrator of the Deed.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 7.—An attempt was made to blow up a non-uion boarding house in Homestead with dynamite this morning. No one was hurt, but the house was badly damaged and the occupants badly frightened.

Mrs. Marron keeps the boarding house. She used to live in this city, but went to Homestead sometime ago. All of her boarders were non-union workers in the Homestead mill and there were 35 of them.

The dining-room was on the first floor and the sleeping rooms on the second. In the front of the house, used as the dining-room were large show windows, for the first floor had been built for a store.

One of the side windows had been broken for sometime, and it was through this that the perpetrator of the deed worked.

It was 2 o'clock this morning when the cartridge was thrown through this window into the dining-room. It struck the floor and a terrific explosion followed.

All the windows were broken and a large hole torn in the floor through which many things were hurled into the cellar below.

The beds on the second floor were thrown six feet into the air and the occupants tumbled to the floor. No one was hurt but the most intense excitement followed.

The boarding house was soon surrounded by officers and the military was called out.

In the excitement and darkness the perpetrator escaped.

The strike leaders claim that the deed was performed by others than strikers. They say it has been done with the purpose of keeping the soldiers here and also to again change public opinion favorable to the Carnegie firm.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

Interesting Meeting Held in Baltimore.

Routine Work in Both Houses—The Revision of the Prayer Book.

Baltimore, Oct. 7.—The third day of the great Episcopal general convention at Emmanuel church opened with a half hour's devotional exercises, which were well attended by members of both houses. The bodies then separated.

After some routine business the bishops and deputies again met together as a board of mission, at which the missionary bishops gave an account of their work.

The revision of the prayer book will again be taken up in the house of deputies to-day and the changes recommended by the committee acted upon. There are still 38 of them to be passed upon by this body.

These propositions cannot be amended in the slightest particular. The present convention can simply accept or reject them. This matter has been before every convention since 1870, and it is Rev. W. Huntingdon, of New York, to whom the church is indebted for this movement for liturgical revision and for the progress which has thus far been made in this important work.

After working on the liturgy for 15 years, the convention shows a strong desire to conclude its work. Dr. Huntingdon expects that before the end of the convention he will be able to lay upon the president's table the standard prayer book for 1892.

Scranton, Pa., Oct. 7.—Wm. Thomas and Joseph Stewart, miners, employed at Storr's shaft, Dixon City, were fatally injured last evening by being thrown from one of the cars operated from the shaft to the opening of the mine. The accident was caused by a misplaced switch. Thomas died to-day of his injuries and Stewart is in an unconscious condition.

ERNST RENAN.

An Imposing Funeral Held in Paris.

Paris, Oct. 7.—The funeral of Ernst Renan to-day was of an imposing character. The ceremonies began at the college of France in the presence of a distinguished assemblage.

The republican guard was drawn up in the court yard and at 10 o'clock its band played the funeral march. After eulogistic addresses had been delivered by M. Bourgeois, minister of instruction and other prominent men the coffin was placed in the hearse. The casket was completely hidden from sight by flowers and wreaths.

At 15 minutes after 11 o'clock the procession headed by a detachment of Lancers, started for Montmarte. The Cortege was a mile in length and included people in all walks of life, prominent among them being numerous radical deputies and senators, journalists and literary and professional celebrities. M. Floquet, president of the chamber of deputies and M. LeRoyer, president of the senate, were present, also Gen. Gallifet and Admiral Gervais. President Carnot was presented by Gen Borieus. The route was lined by crowds of people. The sun shone brightly upon the scene and no incident occurred to mar the solemnity of the occasion.

W. Hopper, of DeKalb, Miss., for a main, to be fought at New Orleans on the nights of December 16, 17 and 18, both parties to show 31 fighters, the weights to range from four pounds eight ounces to six pounds, and the one winning the majority of battles to receive the stake—$2,500.

The old Spanish cockpit in New Orleans will be the scene of the battle.

A CLOSE CALL.

Dudley's Parents Narrowly Escape Suffocation.

Washington, Oct. 7.—At 2 o'clock this morning fire started in the basement of the Strathmore Arms, a boarding house on Twelfth street, which did but little damage. Great volumes of smoke, however, filled the house and Dr. and Mrs. Dudley, the venerable parents of Col. W. W. Dudley, narrowly escaped suffocation.

They were seen in their room from the street after the other occupants had left the house, and Mr. A. S. Towson, at the risk of his life, rescued them.

FOR THE FAIR.

Washington, Oct. 7.—The treasury department has decided that what are known as "packed packages," intended for exhibit at the world's fair, may be imported, provided they are accompanied with a bill of lading showing the entire contents of the packed package, which invoice must state the marks, ownership and value of each separate enclosure in the "packed package" and at Chicago each package will be treated as a separate importation.

PLEA FOR CLEMENCY.

Charleston, S. C., Oct. 7.—A petition was telegraphed to-day to Gov. Tillman, who is in New York, begging a respite for Mildred Brown, a negro child of 14 years who is under sentence to be hanged today at Lawrence. The governor, before his departure, yesterday, refused to interfere. The girl was convicted of poisoning an infant placed in her charge.

CONFLICT OF AUTHORITY.

Complications Caused by the Quarantine.

The President and the New York Officials Are Working on Different Lines.

New York, Oct. 7.—Coplications have arisen over the release of the steamship Massilia of the Favre line from quarantine. This is the first steamer released in disregard to the proclamation of President Harrison on September 1, by order of which all steamers sailing after that date were to be subject to a 20-days quarantine.

The Massilia sailed from Marseilles on September 8, arriving at this port September 30. After seven days quarantine she was released this morning at 9 o'clock and proceeded to her dock.

Her passengers will not be permitted to land until a special permit is issued by Collector Hendricks.

The officials of the Favre line are quite positive that the permit will be issued without delay. Collector Hendricks when seen at 11 o'clock by a United Press reporter said he had not had time to consider the matter and could not say whether he would give the required permission or not. He would take up the matter during the day.

COMMITTED SUICIDE.

New York, Oct. 7.—Mary Curry, rather a pretty girl, of 18 years, committed suicide early this morning at the house of Mrs. Murphy, in East One Hundred and Sixtieth street, by swallowing a dose of laudanum. She had been drinking and it is said the suicide was caused by her brooding over the refusal of an aunt to allow her to use a small legacy left her by her grandmother.

WRECK OF THE NASHUA

Found Bottom-Side Up on Lake Huron.

Her Boiler and Engine Had Dropped Out of Her.

Most Peculiar Accident That Has Ever Happened on Fresh Water.

Sand Beach, Mich., Oct. 7.—The missing propellor Nashua has been found and the finding tells a sad tale of death and destruction. When the tug Howard, which had been cruising about in search of the missing vessel, arrived near the Canadian shore, about eight miles from Bayfield, Ont., the captain of the tug espied what seemd to be an immense log rolling in the sea.

Upon steaming up close to it, it was found to be the wreck of the ill-fated Nashua, bottom side up. There was a large jagged hole in the hull which would indicate that the boiler had exploded. Upon closer investigation it was found that her engine and boilers had gone clean through her. As she was loaded with lumber when relieved of the weight of her boilers she of course remained upon the surface.

None of the missing crew could be found and there was nothing left to tell the tale of their terrible fate. The Howard cruised around the spot and up and down the Canadian shore with a hope of picking up the survivors if there were any, but none were seen nor did those living along the shore know anything about the wreck.

One man was found who said he saw a bright flash followed by a loud explosion on the lake the night before. As his reputation for truth is somewhat shady his story is not believed.

The explosion must have taken place the night before the one on which he bases his tale. The reason for this conclusion is that the wind was blowing a stiff gale on shore and if the explosion had taken place at the time he indicated the wreck would have grounded before it was discovered by the Howard.

The theory of the boiler explosion is not thought to be the proper one by persons who have since visited the wreck. In the opinion of several old sailors she struck a reef, and the heavy sea which was running soon caused the rocks to pound a hole in her through which her engine and boilers rolled, thus releasing her and setting her adrift. The steamer was provided with two small boats which, if in seaworthy condition, were easily capable of holding all the people on board.

Captain Bogies, schooner Ontario, arrived to-night and reported having passed through wreckage about twelve miles south of Goderich to-day. It appeared to be part of the upperworks of a steambarge. Constant inquiries made along the shore bring no tidings that her crew have been saved. A strong southwest wind is blowing to-night, which will bring the wreck nearer shore. The crew, if still afloat in their yawlboat, may be enabled to reach the shore.

Steamers Collide.

Cleveland, Oct. 12.—A special from Sault Ste Marie, received Thursday afternoon states that the steambarge Republic, bound down, ore laden, owned by the Republic Iron company of Cleveland, and the Norman, of the Menominee Transit line, bound up, light, came into collision at the turn of Lake George Flats, near where the Susan E. Peck sank last season.

The boats struck stem on, on the starboard side. The Norman was cut down to the water's edge, ten feet back from the stem. She turned back for Cleveland, with the tug Brockway following. The Republic was crushed 20 feet back from the stem to her bridge, but proceeded on her trip.

Both steamers were built in 1890 by the Globe Iron Works company. They are almost precisely the same size, the Norman registering 1870 and the Republic 1874 tons, and they are each valued at $200,000. Both are fully covered with marine and collision liability insurance. The Republic is commanded by Captain J. A. Landfair, one of the best known captains on the lakes. Captain S. Stratton sails the Norman. He is a young man, but has an excellent reputation for care and good judgment. This was the first trip this season of the Norman to Lake Superior.

Struck a Whale.

Cheboygan, Oct. 7.—The whaleback steamer Pillsbury, with flour from Gladstone to Buffalo, and the steamer Nahant, laden with iron ore from Escanaba, collided off Poe's reef. The Nahant was severely damaged, and is leaking badly. The Favorite is towing her to a port of repair.

The Plow Boy.

Erie, Pa., Oct. 7.—The schooner Plow Boy was sold by United States Marshal Hugh Lord to Captain William Stanton. The Plow Boy, a 90-ton schooner, was rebuilt last spring in Buffalo by Captain McCarthy, and in August he set out on a wrecking expedition. He was driven ashore at Erie, and while getting his vessel off the beach died suddenly. The crew had a few days' pay due them, and they stayed aboard to this day; and between them and the ship keeper there was hardly enough left to pay the exection-hardly enough left to pay the execution claims.

Wheat Shortages at Buffalo.

Buffalo, Oct. 7.—The steamer Pope left for Chicago with 3,930 tons of coal, as estimated by shippers, on 16 and 16 1-2 feet draft. This is about 700 tons ahead of anything in coal from this port.

Grain shortages abound. The steamer Folsom, from Chicago, was 757 bushels of wheat short, and the Northern Queen, from Duluth, about 500 bushels. There are many others, but tallymen are reticent, hoping to quietly get the grain back. A Detroit shortage of 508 bushels was found. Chicago is reported to be the shortest. There are also reported to be bad runs.

Racine, Oct. 7.—A large, white, three and aft schooner struck Racine reef at 9 o'clock this morning, but as the weather is hazy her name cannot be made out.

The tug Hall, of Chicago, and the life saving crew have gone to her rescue. The wind is blowing fresh from the northwest and a heavy sea is making.

Cambria Disabled.

Cleveland, Oct. 7.—Now comes news from Escanaba that the Cambria, another of the Hanna steel boats of Cleveland is there with a loose wheel and must be towed down by the Corona. A dispatch from Oseoda says the Norman is coming along all right.

Schooner Aground.

Sault Ste Marie, Oct. 7.—Schooner Ben Brinkley, in tow of steamer Sprigley, went aground in the flats this morning. The tug Merrick has gone to her assistance.

Threatened Blockade.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—Owing to threatened grain blockade at Buffalo some vessels were taken off the market and sent for iron ore.

Rates held steady at 2 cents for corn to Buffalo. Much depends upon the grain movement from Lake Erie ,and the outlook is uncertain.

Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, Oct. 7.—There is a fair demand for boats here, but vessels are scarce. Schooner W. S. Crosthwaite takes rye and barley to Buffalo at Chicago rates.

Buffalo.

Buffalo, Oct. 7.—The coal movement for the first week in October is one of the biggest on record.

Shipments of over 130,000 tons have been made. Freights continue fairly active at unchanged figures.

Charters—Vail, Baltic, Quito, Chicago, 65c; Pabst, Roumania, Barlum, Milwaukee, 60c; Selkirk, Green Bay, 60c.

Cleveland.

Cleveland, Oct. 7.—Steamer Tom Adams was chartered this morning at 3 3-4c for wheat, Duluth to Buffalo, which was an advance of 1-4 of a cent.

Freights are quiet and unchanged.

The Whaleback Wreck.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—Telegrams to underwriters state that steamer Nahant, which collided with whaleback Pillsbury yesterday, is at Duncan Bay full of water. She was only kept afloat long enough to reach shore in tow of tug Favorite.

Wrecker Murphy who is in the city today, states that operations on Ogeman have been given up until next July.

SCARE IN TONAWANDA.

Cholera Cases in New York State.

A Very Unclean State of Affairs.

A Family of Nine Persons in One Building Believed to Have the Dread Disease.

Tonawanda, N. Y., Oct. 7.—Two new cases of cholera are reported in the house at Ironton, where the Kalmas, father and son, died and the excitement here is intense.

Ironton is one and one-half miles from here and takes its name from the iron works there.

In a little four-room frame house there live nine people who came to this country three mouths ago and are employed at the iron works.

It was here the disease first appeared. Frank Kalma died nine hours after he was attacked and his son died from the same disease after an illness of even shorter duration.

This morning it is reported that Kalma's wife and an Austrian named Kalisch are down with the disease, but in a milder form.

The health authorities are greatly disturbed and have asked for instructions from the state board of health.

The house is quarantined and the bedding and furniture in the rooms occupied by the Kalmas have been burned.

A lot of mail from Europe was found in the house and this also was destroyed.

Dr. Jayne said to-day that the disease has every appearance of genuine cholera, but thinks it may be sporadic. The people in the house, he said, have been eating tainted meats and decayed vegetables and their surroundings were of a generally uncleanly character.

APPROACHING WEDDING

Of a Prominent Young Toledo Business Man.

Cards are being received by Toledo friends announcing the approaching marriage of Mr. Charles F. Milburn, of the Milburn Wagon company, and Miss Katharine Knapp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick M. Knapp, of Racine, Wisconsin, on Tuesday evening, October 18, at 6 o'clock, at St. Luke's church.

The reception will be held at 6:30 at the home of the bride's parents, 224 Main street.

Miss Knapp is a beautiful and highly accomplished young lady, and her family are among the first and wealthiest in Racine. She will be a welcome addition to Toledo society circles.

Mr. and Mrs. Milburn will be at home Wednesdays, January 4th and 18th, from 3 to 5 and 7 to 9 o'clock at their home, 1930 Parkwood avenue.

Congratulations are already numerous and hearty.

A DEMOCRATIC APPEAL FOR AID.

New York, Oct. 7.—The democratic national committee issued an address this evening calling for means "not only to spread the truth among the people," but to "prosecute and punish crimes against the ballot." Continuing it says: "All anxiety about the state of New York is allayed and she will give her electoral vote to our candidates. All reports from independent and conservative sources in other parts of the country are exceptionally promising."

FOUND DEAD.

New York, Oct. 7.—Fritz Leeman, a waiter, 25 years old, was found dead in bed this morning at 180 Third avenue. The gas was turned on but unlighted and the police say it is a case of suicide.

ABOUT THE DALTONS.

Cole Younger Will Not Own Relationship.

The Excitement at Coffeyville Is Over.

A Move on Foot to Take Care of the Families of the Citizens Who Were Killed.

Stillwater, Minn., Oct. 7.—Cole Younger at the prison yesterday indignantly denied all relationship with or knowledge of the Dalton gang. He said:

"I undersand the Dalton gang lived in Kansas and Kentucky and I kept out of Kansas as the people of that state would have taken pleasure in lynching me after the war owing to my sympathies with the south. I believe a third cousin of mine married a Dalton and I knew several persons by that name, a preacher and a farmer in Missouri, but they were not connected in any way with the outlaws.

'I am 49 years old and have been in prison here for 16 years. Now the Dalton gang of outlaws may have been mere boys when I was on earth. They may have been related to the James boys; I cannot say as to that. I know our family was not related to the James family, although such relationship is currently reported."

Coffeyville, Kan., Oct. 7.—The town was crowded all day yesterday with people who came to see the dead and wounded robbers. Everything is quiet now and all the wounded are resting easily.

Cashier Ayers, who was thought to have been fatally wounded, is now in a fair way to recover and unless some untoward symptoms set in he will get well. Emmet Dalton, the wounded robber, shows the greatest nerve. He stood the torture of the surgeons probing for the ball with not so much as a moan to show that he suffered pain.

The funeral services over the remains of Marshal Connelly and George Cubine were held yesterday, the former was buried at Independence.

While the people are greatly excited they feel that the deaths of the citizens have been well avenged. A movement is on foot among the bankers to establish a fund for the families of the dead men, and the Sedalia, Mo., bank started the idea with a subscription of $50 and a call to other banks in the country to do the same.

Topeka, Kan., Oct. 7.—Ollie Ogee, one of the Dalton gang, who is supposed to have escaped from Coffeyville, Wednesday, is the son of the late John L. Ogee, a farmer. He was regarded as a quiet, unassuming and intelligent young man. He is about 23 years old. His parents separated when he was quite young and he was raised in the family of Dr. Moody of Coffeyville.

Young Ogee is about one-eighth Indian blood. His father left a good estate, and Ollie was paid $500—the last of his share—about two years ago. He then went to the Indian territory to live. Nothing has been heard of him lately.

Guthrie, O. T., Oct. 7.—William Dalton, brother of the three outlaws killed at Coffeyville Wednesday, was in the city yesterday en route to that place to claim the bodies of his brothers and take them to Hennessy, O. T., where the mother lives. In an interview he stated that he is one of ten brothers and five sisters, all of whom were living until Wednesday, except Frank, the eldest brother, who was killed while serving as a deputy marshal some years ago.

Hutchinson, Kan., Oct. 7.—Word was received here yesterday that the member of the Dalton gang, killed at the attempted robbery at Coffeyville, that was not identified, was Dick Broadwell, whose parents live and are one of the first families of this city.

SULLIVAN ON A DRUNK.

The Expected Has Happened in His Case.

His Sparring Exhibition With Ashton a Ludicrous Farce.

New York, Oct. 7.—A rumor was circulated last night in the upper part of the city that John L. Sullivan, the ex-champion pugilist, had attempted to commit suicide.

He is playing an engagement at the Columbus theater. Investigation by a reporter of the United Press revealed the fact that Sullivan had not attempted to commit suicide, but that he went through his part last night in such a state of intoxication that the fact was perceptible to the audience.

His boxing bout with Jack Ashton was said to have been so ludricous that the audience hissed.

ABOUT THE SIZE OF IT.

Ashley Cannot Carry Wood County.

A Paralyzer Heard by Charley Wilson on the Train While En Route to Bowling Green.

"A man can hav ea great many things on a railroad train," remarked Attorney Charley Wilson to a Bee this morning, "and usually the passengers settles down to politics after all other subjects have been exhausted. Yesterday I was on a train en route to Bowling Green, when I overheard a political conversation that was a great surprise to me, I assure you.

"A Toledo traveling man and another gentleman, evidently a merchant, if my impression, taken from his personal appearance, is correct, were on the train. At any rate, they were standing in the aisle, just near where I was seated. The traveling man, who was considerably younger than th eother, remarked in a somewhat bantering manner 'Well, the democrats have nominated Ritfchie for congress, and he don't stand a ghost of a show along side of Ashley.'

"'My dear boy,' responded the elder gentleman, evidently somewhat piqued, 'I have lived in Wood county all my life and have been a republican just as long, but I will wager $5 that Ashley does not carry Wood county.'

"The two moved down the aisle and I did not hear any more of the argument."

WARM TIMES IN KANSAS

Democrats Gathered in the City of Topeka

To Protest Against People's Party Indorsement.

Many Serious Complications May Arise Before the Convention Adjourns.

Topeka, Kas., Oct. 7.—Anywhere from 500 to 1,000 representative democrats of the state are here to participate in the mass meeting convention which will be held this afternoon to place the stamp of disapproval upon the democratic indorsement of the people's party ticket.

The gathering is the outcome of a conference held some weeks ago of such representative democrats as Col. A. Ferris, J. G. Lave, J. B. Crounch, Edward N. Stowins, Judge J. S. Emery and several others, all influential in their respective localities, and who, in an address issued to the "true democrats of Kansas" declared as follows:

"By the action of the recent convention you are not only deprived of the opportunity of directly expressing your appreciation of the wisdom, distinguished services and unexcelled patriotism of the worthy successor of Jefferson and Tilden, Grover Cleveland, but an attempt was also made to deliver you to a hostile political organization, which, if successful, would destroy our party in the state and bring disaster and ruin to the material interests of the people."

According to the delegates already on the ground, there is widespread dissatisfaction throughout the state at the action of the state convention in refusing to maintain the state organization.

So strong is this feeling on the part of some of the democrats now here that they advocate the adoption of a resolution recommending that the democrats of the state be urged to vote the republican state ticket in order that the credit of the state may not be destroyed by turning the commonwealth over to the calamity party.

The most conservative of the opposition are in favor of indorsing Grover Cleveland, and guaranteeing earnest support to the fusion electoral ticket, but to oppose the people's part state ticket on the ground that its success would destroy the credit of the state ticket among the moneyed men of the east.

DRIVEN OUT.

Canada Quarantine Injured Her Ocean Trade.

Montreal, Oct. 7.—The ridiculous quarantine regulations instituted here by the central board of health, at the time of the cholera scare, have resulted in one steamship company withdrawing its business from Montreal.

The steamships of the Hamburg-American packet company running between Montreal and Hamburg and Antwerp have been retired from the St. Lawrence route and for the remainder of the season will trade to Boston. Only one more boat will arrive here.

The officers of the company say that in view of the arbitrary action of the provincial health board they had no other course to pursue but to take their boats to an American port where they would not be subjected to the petty restrictions they met with here.

Their boats have been put to a great deal of loss and inconvenience without just reason. Canadian merchants who have made contracts with the Hamburg-American Packet company will now be compelled to bring their goods in via the United States port and the result is that the trade Canada loses the United States will gain.

MEXICAN SOUTHERN.

The Province of Oaxaca Is Now in Easy Reach.

Oaxaca, Mex., Oct. 7.—The Mexican Southern railroad was opened up to this city yesterday, giving for the first time rapid and direct communication with the City of Mexico and the United States.

The province of Oaxaca is the richest and most fertile agricultural district in the republic and already many American firms have established agencies here. Work on the branch of the Mexican Central from this city to Tehuantepec is being rushed rapidly, and will be opened within a few months, giving direct communication with the Pacific coast.

FOUND MURDERED.

An Indiana Town Greatly Excited.

La Porte, Ind., Oct. 7.—The inhabitants of Otis, Ind., were startled to learn that a brutal murder had been committed. The body of Mrs. Michael Cook was found yesterday afternoon in a small shed adjoining the family residence. There was a frightful wound in the head and side.

The house was found in a topsy-turvy condition, having been ransacked from top to bottom. There are several conjectures as to the cause of the murder, some claiming it was for the purpose of robbery and others think it was for revenge. The woman had on only her night clothing when murdered. Mrs. Cook's husband was employed on the Lake Shore road and was not at home. The woman was about 35 years of age.

SENATOR HILL.

He Will Be Asked to Stump the State of California.

San Francisco, Oct. 7.—The ten democratic societies of California last night decided to send a representative to New York with an invitation to Senator Hill to come to California and stump the state.

They have raised $5,000 which will be used to defray Hill's expenses. They will put a special train at his service and he will own the state while he is here. The societies hope he may accept the offer as there is a keen desire to see him here.

BOTH EYES OUT.

Seventy-One Shot Put in One Man.

New Philadelphia, O., Oct. 7.—Tom Jacobs fired at a rabbit that suddenly sprang up before him. The charge whistled a merry tune and brought up in the bodies of Dave Watkins, of Canal Dover, and a tramp, who were sitting on the C., L. & W. railroad track. The tramp received eight shot in the stomach, but will recover. Watkins fared much worse and a physician picked 71 No. 8 shot from his face. Both eyes were put out and Watkins is in a precarious condition.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY.

Marfa, Tex., Oct. 7.—Yesterday forenoon on returning home from work John McCarthy, section foreman on the Southern Pacific railroad, found his wife in a dying condition. She had written a note stating that she had taken morphine. He immediately shot himself through the heart, dying instantly. His wife died several hours later. Family troubles were the cause of the double tragedy.

DEITSCH'S WAR

Formally Opened on the Pool Rooms.

Half the Detective Force Sent Out—They Make Arrests at Several Places.

Cincinnati, Oct. 7.—Col. Deitsch's war on the pool rooms began in earnest Thursday afternoon.

He had Chief of Detectives Hazen detail half of his force to make a circuit of all the pool rooms and arrest as many betters as they could catch in the act of buying pools.

They were also instructed to bring in the attaches of the rooms who received the money. The pool room operators got wind of the intended raid, and were on the lookout for the detectives.

The first few rounds they made resulted in waterhauls. Whenever one of them entered a room, the cashier locked up his drawer and rubbed the odds off the blackboard, while the pikers sat around and did their best to look innocent.

NO NUISANCE.

Investigation of Contractor O'Hara's Crematory

By a Newspaper Party—No Smoke or Bad Odors There.

Readers of the Bee will remember that at the meeting of the police and health boad Wednesday night a complaint was made against the crematory used by Garbage Contractor D. J. O'Hara for disposing of dead horses and other dead animals, the bodies of which are collected by him. This complaint alleged that the foul odors and gases from the crematory was dangerous to life and health and a cause of disease.

In order to investigate this matter a party of newspaper men accompanied Mr. O'Hara on a visit to the crematory yesterday afternoon, and made a vain attempt to discover any nuisance about the institution.

Mr. O'Hara's crematory is located on the banks of Swan creek in a hollow just off Detroit avenue and about a half mile north of the asylum. This is nearly six miles from the center of the city and is perfectly isolated. The nearest house is about 200 yards distant, and that is the house on the farm where the crematory is located.

The crematory itself is a small frame building enclosing the simple brick furnace, and altogether it is a very unobtrusive and inoffensive concern.

Those of the newspaper party who had never before visited the crematory rather expected to find a large building with high smoke stacks from which rolled volumes of black smoke foul with the smell of burning flesh and other dangerous gases.

In this they were disappointed, for when the crematory was reached there was not a particle of smoke issuing from the chimney, though the remains of three horses were being consumed in the furnace.

The party gave the place a thorough examination from the gas burners below to the top of the chimney, where they put their noses as close to the current of hot air as they dared, and they were unable to find any odors whatever. The place is kept neat and clean and no one who has seen it will call Mr. O'Hara's crematory a nuisance.

DAVY PHILIPS' CASE.

He Has Served Two Years More than His Sentence.

Columbus, Oct. 7.—The board of penitentiary managers has adjourned after recommending two pardons for the action of Gov. McKinley. The most interesting case is that of Davy Philips, of Wood county, sent up in 1876 for assault, who has served two years over his sentence.

One year after his incarceration Philips was taken to the asylum as insane. During Gov. Foraker's administration, eight years afterward, he was returned to the prison as incurable, but by law the eight years could not be applied to diminish his time of service. Since then he has been confined in the prison asylum. Two weeks ago Caroline Fair was received for one year, technically guilty of bigamy, having remarried in the belief that her husband was divorced. The judge and prosecuting attorney ask her release. Mabel Welton, one year for larceny, from Cincinnati, will be pardoned, as she is suffering from an incurable disease.

President Pena Will Resign the Presidency of Argentina—Southern Notes.

New York, Oct. 7.—The Herald's correspondent at Valparaiso cables that paper as follows: Prof. Pickering, of the Harvard branch observatory at Arequipa, says he has discovered forty small lakes in Mars. He also confirms Prof. Holden's observations on the limits and measured altitudes of the planet.

The Herald correspondent at Buenos Ayres says there is a rumor to the effect that President Pena will resign the presidency on account of the determined opposition and the difficulty ?he has had in forming a cabinet. In the event of his resignation being handed in Vice President Uriburu will be comepresiden t.

A CRAZY WOMAN

Succeeds in Burning Her Husband to Death.

She Poured Coal Oil on Him While He Slept and Then Applied the Match.

Coatesville, Ind., Oct. 7.—This little town was thrown into great excitement Wednesday by a crime committed by a mad woman.

Mrs. Wm. Sharp poured coal oil on her husband while he was sleeping and then applied a match, burning him to death.

Sharp endeavored to extricate himself, but the woman opposed his efforts and was herself severely burned and will probably die.

Mr. Sharp lived only a short time. Both were about 50 years old.

PLEAS M'COY CONVICTED.

Sentenced for Life at the Age of Seventeen.

One of the Most Brutal Crimes Ever Committed in Kentucky.

Bristol, Tenn., Oct. 7.—Pike county, Ky., called the mother of crimes and criminals, the Hatfields and McCoys being conspicuous in the latter class, has just convicted Pleas McCoy, one of the notorious McCoy tribe, for the brutal murder of Bird McCoy, his cousin.

The term of sentence is for his natural life and he is now only 17. Wm. Dyer, a half brother of Pleas, was under indictment sometime ago for various crimes. Bird McCoy, an officer of the law, had warrants for his arrest. Dyer planned to get him out of the way. Too cowardly himself, he employed Pleas to do so and was to pay him for it by giving him a gun and pistol.

While Bird was returning from church one Sunday, Pleas stole near him and began firing into his back. Bird fell with a dozen bullets in his body. He managed to drag himself to a fence corner where he lay down. While he was gasping for breath the murderer approached with cocked Winchester. The dying man begged piteously for mercy, but Pleas fired a dozen or more balls into his head.

For more than 20 years the Hatfield-McCoy feud in that county has been kept up.

ANOTHER POSTPONEMENT.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 8.—Another postponement in the Peck case took place this morning. The hearing in the matter of criminal charge of burning public documents was to have taken place in police court this morning at 10 o'clock. Justice Gutman was ready at that time, but counsel for Mr. Peck sent word that he had been called to New York and asked a postponement. Mr. Case, counsel for the prosecution did not object, and the case was adjourned until the 20th of October, two days after the matter will be heard in the court of sessions.

Louisville, Oct. 7.—Twelve thousand saw Nancy Hanks go a mile in 2:06 at the fair grounds, New Albany, Ind. The track was in excellent condition and the little Kentucky queen was in the prime of condition. She went two exhibition mile heats early in the afternoon, and it was nearly 5 o'clock when Doble and the mare came upon the track. At the first trial Abe Lincoln, the queen's running mate, ran into the outer fence, but at the second, Doble nodded his head and Nancy was off at her world-beating gait. She was to beat 2:07 and few doubted that she would do it. She went the first quarter in 32 3-5 seconds and the half in 1:03. In 1:35 2-5 seconds after starting she flew by the three-quarter flag, and under the wire in 2:06.

New York, Oct. 7.—Turf, Field and Farm has to-day the following: Last Tuesday Charles Marvin started for Lexington with Miller & Sibley's stable to fill engagements at Lexington, Nashville and Columbia. He has taken Sunol and Arion with him. He hopes to lower the record with Sunol and with Arion he expects to wipe out all 3-year-old records. Arion and Sunol have both been suffering from colds, but they have fully recovered. Marvin telegraphed last Monday, after giving Sunol a mile and repeat, that she is, to use his phrase, "O. K." Mr. Bonner, on a recent visit to Meadville, asked Mr. Marvin how fast he thought Sunol could have trotted half a mile to a bicycle sulky the day that Gov. Stanford timed her a quarter in 29 1-2 seconds. Marvin's reply was "About 58 seconds," and then he added: "If she only remains right there is no telling where she will trot a mile to the new sulky." It ought to be a very easy thing for the great Arion, with his 2-year-old record of 2:10 3-4 to the old style sulky, to wipe it out several seconds when hitched to the bicycle.

BENEFIT OF GOOD CLOTHES.

They Give People a Sense of Contentment Which Nothing Else Approaches.

Talk about the restfulness of any easy conscience, it is not to be compared with the sense of absolute content and a wee bit of superiority thrown in that results from the consciousness that we are well dressed. Good clothes are positively a sort of moral support. You never will sink into oblivion if you manage to keep continually up to date in the matter of gowns and the pleasing etceteras that go to make them perfect.

A woman's manners depend largely on her dress. If she knows she is inappropriately gowned or that there is something wrong in the cut or fit, the drapery or trimming, the Philadelphia Times says, she will be ill at ease and embarrassed, whereas a gown stamped all right in every seam will convert the same woman into a bright, witty creature, contented with herself and all the world.

It is simply dreadful, we know, yet there is hardly a woman who can appear perfectly unconscious when she comes before the public in a gown for the first time. Clothes have such an influence on the feminine mind, at least, that the adage, "Fine feathers make fine birds," is about the truest saying in the English language. Good clothes make good manners is its more specific application, and if a man wants to see a woman at her best, gown her in the newest and loveliest things at his command. She will more than repay the cost in the added sparkle in the eyes, the sweet air of confidence in her more correct appearance and general demeanor of childish satisfaction that make her bewitching.

The founders of Phoenix, Arizona territory, "builded better than they knew" in naming their infant town. In some recent excavations there the ashes of prehistoric residents were found inclosed in urns. By the way, this evidence of the practice of urn burial by our predecessors, if not by our ancestors, taken in connection with our recent discoveries, should silence the complaint that this country has no past.

Robert Braybrook, bishop of London, who died in 1404, was taken from his tomb after the great fire of 1666, after having been buried 262 years. Notwithstanding this his remains were found to be perfectly fresh and unshrunken. His hair had grown more than a yard in length and had a natural, lifelike luster. The workmen, who believed it a case of vampirism, fled in terror from the scene and some others had to be hired to complete the removal.

On October 7th, 1777, the Americans, under Gates, totally defeated the British army under Burgoyne, at Saratoga.

Some 7,500 prisoners were the prize of victory, as Burgoyne was forced to surrender ten days later and this splendid triumph secured the alliance of France and the first positive assurance of American independence, which then received its baptism of fire.

PUBLICITY AS A CURE FOR CORRUPTION.

The specific remedy for the serious abuse existing in the irresponsible and fraud-concealing methods pursued by political campaign committees will be found in the enactment of laws in all the states, possibly also of a federal law, requiring political committees to publish at the conclusion of a campaign full statements, duly attested before a notary, giving an account of all money received and disbursed by them in the prosecution of their work. It is not sufficient to make such a requirement of a candidate, as is done by the New York law; it should be required of committees, for with these the main danger lurks. Michigan has such a law, which is part of that state's new and excellent ballot-reform law. Massachusetts, thanks to the untiring devotion and ability of her strong band of reformers, after several futile attempts, obtained an excellent law during the past winter. This went into operation August 1, 1892.—Herbert Welsh, in the Forum.

Objects to Such "Wit".

We like to read bright things said by our contemporaries of Grover Cleveland, but speaking of him as the "fat prophet," "stuffed sage of Buzzard'sBay," in our humble opinion comes about as near being bright as the odor of limburger cheese does to the attar of roses.—Chicago Mail (rep.)

He had a partial hearing in police court this morning, at which one of his former companions testified that Riley made a proposition to him to rob the man on the boat and whack up the swag. Bail was fixed at $500.

Equality Club Meeting.

At the home of Mrs. Judge Bentley, 435 Superior street, to-morrow (Saturday) afternoon at 4 o'clock, the Political Equality club will hold the semi-monthly meeting.

An interesting program has been arranged, and the meeting should be well attended.

Final arrangement for the proposed lecture course will probably be made, and other business of importance be transacted.

Deferred Meeting.

Promptly at 8 o'clock last night the members of the Catholic club met at the entrance of Friendship hall, but the doors remained closed and they were obliged to return home exceedingly disappointed in their expectation of a pleasant evening. As many had come from distant parts of the city, they were indignant at the failure to have the room lighted and opened. As the interest increases in this club the members were naturally more annoyed.

Democratic Executive Committee.

A meeting of the Lucas county democratic executive committee was held yesterday afternoon at headquarters in the old board of elections rooms, for the purpose of organizing for the campaign. Judge D. H. Commager was elected chairman by acclamation, and this action was taken with reference to Jacob Mandler as treasurer and Charles W. Murphy as secretary. Messrs. M. J. Cooney, Frank J. Cheney and Rudolph Brand were appointed as the finance committee. The campaign managers are a strong team, and if their efforts are seconded by the rank and file of the party, as they should be, a victory will be celebrated in November.

Who Is Clara Nell Neil?

A special from Duluth to the Detroit Tribune, tells of a burglary in Duluth and credits the same to Simon Neil, who lives in a mysterious cottage at Powder Lake, and who is a mysterious man. A search was made of the cottage and stolen articles found which belonged to the Duluth merchant. A striped suit of convict's clothing was also found and a large oven in the kitchen was filled with human bones. Six skulls, highly polished, were among his curiosities. He refused to talk even after he had b eensentenced. Near the cottage door was found an old envelope, on which were the words "Clara Nell Neil, Air Line Junction, Toledo Ohio." "Clara Nell" is probably a relative but nothing can be found of her present whereabouts.

Will Replenish their Treasury.

Henrietta L. Monroe W. C. T. U. met Thursday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. P. C. Beard, on Dorr street.

The object of the meeting was to consider plans for the winter's campaign, and also the question of raising funds to carry on the work.

The union is young, and the treasurer's receipts would not admit of very aggressive work, so the first thing the ladies will do will be to put the union on a good financial basis.

They propose giving an entertainment and oyster supper in the near future, the exact date of which will probably be decided upon at the next meeting, which will be held Tuesday afternoon, October 11, at 3 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. P. C. Beard, 439 Dorr street.

Hancock After Us, Too.

The treasurer of Wood county has a tax bill of $1,500 against the Toledo city gas trustees on the Toledo pipe line through Wood county, and he proposes to get the money if he has to sell the pipe line for that purpose. This reminds us that Toledo also has considerable pipe line in this county and upon this line we do not believe the trustees of the city are paying any taxes at all. The exemption is according to the terms of an unconstitutional legislative enactment which Wood county has very properly disregarded and which ought to be disregarded here. We do not think that the legislature has a right to exempt anybody or any corporation from taxation in Ohio, and this act assuming this power is therefore worthless. It is not too late for such a proceeding, the officials of Hancock county should endeavor to get what properly belongs to our treasury in the direction indicated.—Findlay Jeffersonian.

An Intellectual Treat.

On Wednesday evening, October 19, Mrs. Lide Meriwether, of Memphis, Tenn., president of the Tennessee state W. C. T. U., will deliver her celebrated lecture, "The Silent Seven," in this city, being the first in a course of six lectures by distinguished women, to be given in Toledo this winter under the auspices of the Political Equality club.

Her admirers say of her that she has the gift of an orator with the soul of a poet, and that as an elocutionist she is perfect.

She has a national reputation, and will be well worth hearing.

On November 30, Carrie Lane Chapman, of Washington, will be the lecturer, being quite as well known as Mrs. Meriwether.

On January 4, Clara Colby, of Washington, D. C., will speak; in February Rev. Anna Shaw, who has delighted Toledo audiences before; on March 8, Susan B. Anthony, and at a later date, not yet decided upon, Mary Livermore, of Boston, who will be the last lecturer in the course.

All the live topics of the day will be treated by these women, who represent the finest talent of the country, and whose lectures no one can afford to miss.

NO GAS IN DETROIT.

A Break in the Pipe Temporarily Shuts Off the Supply.

The supply of natural gas in Detroit was cut off this morning by a break in the pipe on the river route. There is no apparent reason why a break should occur at this time of the year, and it is supposed that the anchor of some boat caught the pipe and broke it.

The gates were closed at once as a precautionary measure and steps taken to repair the damage. J. C. Sloan, one of the Northwestern's representatives in Detroit, wired Superintendent Daly this noon that he expeced to make connections again by to-night. The supply in Toledo was not effected by the accident.

A LITTLE BABY

Is Left at the Humane Office by an Unnatural Mother.

Yesterday afternoon three women called at the Humane office and asked to see Officer France. One of the women carried a baby boy in her arms and another one carried a basket.

They were told that Mr. France was not in and shortly afterwards they went out, saying they were going to see the chief of police. They didn't call at police headquarters, however, and since leaving the Humane office they haven't been seen.

Shortly after the women departed it was discovered that the baby and the basket had been left behind. The child was apparently about three months old, and the basket contained a quantity of infant's garments neatly folded.

When Mr. France arrived he had the little waif taken to the home of Mrs. Wares on Moore street, where it will be cared for until a suitable home is found for it. One of the women said she lived in Deshler, O. It is evidently a case of premeditated desertion.

THE DEMOCRATIC CAMPAIGN.

An Excellent Committee Chosen—Business Principles to Prevail.

The election of officers by the democratic county executive committee yesterday afternoon meets with the hearty approval of the party in general. What is true of the officers is likewise true of the finance committee. The members are men of probity and honor, and the funds intrusted to their care will be properly accounted for.

The democratic committee, unlike that of the opposition, could not run a boodle campaign, if it so desired. The funds which will come to its hands will come from men who have the interests of the pary at heart. The county offices are not filled with democrats who might be assessed, hence contributions must necessarily be free-will offerings.

The committee will need money with which to pay the legitimate expenses of the campaign—hall rent, headquarters, postage, etc., and to this end it is hoped when the committee begins its canvass they will receive generous responses. The standing of the gentlemen connected with the campaign management should, and undoubtedly will, be an assurance that only proper expenses will be incurred; therefore, they have a right to ask the hearty co-operation of their fellow democrats and those who desire to assist in changing the governmental rulers, local and general, to the party of the people.

CLOCKLESS COUNTRIES.

Liberia, in Africa, has neither clock nor time-piece of any sort, the reckoning of time is made entirely by the movement and position of the sun, which rises at 6 a. m. and sets at 6 p. m., almost to the minute, the year round, and at noon it is vertically over head. The islanders of the South Pacific have no clocks, but make a curious time marker of their own. They take the kernels from the nuts of the candle tree and wash and string them on the rib of a palm leaf. The first or top kernel is then lighted. All of the kernels are of the same size and substance, and each will burn a certain number of minutes and then set fire to the next one below. The natives tie pieces of bark cloth at regular intervals along the string to make the divisions of time.

Among the natives of Singar, in the Malay Archipelago, another peculiar device is used. Two bottles are placed neck to neck, and sand is placed in one of them, which pours itself into the other one every half hour, when the bottles are reversed. There is a line near by also, on which are hung 12 rods marked with notches from one to twelve. A regularly appointed keeper attends to the bottles and rods and sounds the hours upon a gong.

As an Oregon Pacific train, west bound, was three miles west of Lyons, Ore., the other day, a woman was seen by those in the cars to be shaking her apron violently, evidently for the benefit of one of the passengers. A man siding in the cars recognized the woman, and, though the train was going about 20 miles an hour, jumped to the ground, and, after turning several somersaults, got up, evidently not injured much. On reaching Lyons the cause of the strange proceedings was learned. The man was a saloon-keeper, who was wanted for selling liquor without a license. The woman was his wife, who had walked three miles up the track to give her husband the alarm, in which she had been successful.

MARKETS TO-DAY.

Governor Boies, of Iowa, says he has been over the state and has observed the corn crop. His judgment is, the crop will produce 90 per cent. of an average.

Prime report say the states west of the river are badly in need of rain, not only for wheat growing, but for cattle and other necessities.

The receipts of wheat at Toledo to-day are 28,365 bushels in excess of 1891, same Thursday.

Our analysis of receipts of wheat shows an excess at seven points over Thursday in 1891 of 547,775 bushels. The excess at two northwestern points is 122,647 buhels, and at five other western points 425,024 bushels.

The export movement of wheat is light. Of flour it is large, and notably to-day. The mills of this country are all at work at their full capacity. The profit is very close, but the tendency is towards large mills, which can work on a smaller rate per barrel gain.

Opening English markets this a. m. were stronger on wheat, and Chicago reports acceptance from English buyers of offers made by cable last night, which we are very glad to see and we presume Chicago is also. It has occurred to us that a good deal of our wheat must take that direction sooner or later, and the sooner, perhaps, the better. No exporter wants the contract wheat except to mix with lower grades, and if Chicago needs two or three millions to deliver on sales Toledo will send it up to them.

Wheat has been stronger to-day east and west from opening to close. The leading factor in the bull list, is the dry weather, supplemented by daily advancing English markets. If any one wants to see permanently better markets it is the writer, and if any city wants better markets it is Toledo, but Chicago is very handy at a bulge for a scalp and that sort of an improvement is a disadvantage. Here's hoping for a round and permanent advance in prices all around.

Corn has not fluctuated much but closes a shade higher.

London and Liverpool wheat markets are reported closing higher.

In New York October wheat closed at 80 1-2c, a gain of 1c; December at 82 3-4c, a gain of 7-8c; May at 89 1-8c, a gain of 3-4c. October corn at 51 5-8c, a gain of 3-8c; May at 54 3-4c, a gain of 1-2c. October oats at 36 1-4c, a gain of 1-2c.

In Chicago October wheat closed at 75 1-4c; December at 77 1-2c asked, a gain of 7-8c; May at 83 1-8 to 83 1-4c, a gain of 7-8c. October corn at 44c and May at 48 1-8 and 48 1-4c, a gain of 1-4c. October oats unchanged.

In Toledo we have had an improvement in the trading in wheat futures, and the market wears a more confident tone at higher prices. The business to-day has been a good portion for May delivery, but December, November and October were also traded in. Opening trades were at an advance of 1-4 to 1-2, and at the close October was about 1c up, December 7-8 and May 1c; October sold at 75 1-2 and closed at 74 3-4; November at 76 1-4, closing at 77; December at 77 3-4, closing at 78 1-4 bid; May at 82 1-2, closing at 84 bid. Yesterday 6,000 bu of October wheat sold at 74 3-4, which was over looked by our reporter.

After 'Change May sold at 84c and at 74 1-4c; December at 77 1-2c, asked, a soft at 62c.

Cash wheat was in much better demand and the market was more active. No. 2 soft sold at 75c to 75 3-4c and closed at that bid, a gain of 1 1-4c. No. 3 soft at 68 3-4c to 69c, and at close 69 1-4c was the market. Rejected No. 2 at 50c to 51c. No. 2 mixed wheat at 72c. Red and white at 74c. No. 2 hard at 71c. No. 3 at 66c.

Corn—No. 2 at 45c. No. 3 at 44c. No. 3 yellow at 45c. Rye—No. 3 at 52c L. S., and 51 1-2c W. Rejected at 42c.

Clover seed was again active. Prices were again advanced 5c and on longer futures more than that. Prime for cash sold at $6.55, October at $6.55, November at $6.60, December at $6.70, January at $6.72 1-2 to $6.75, February at $6.82 1-2, March at $6.90, No. 2 at $6.35 to $6.40.

The receipts of wheat to-day at Minneapolis and Duluth are 580,196 bushels and at five other western points 946,459 bushels. On the corresponding Thursday in 1891 the receipts were 1,078,980 bushels including 457,549 bushels of northwest wheat, leaving as the movement at five other western points 521,431 bushels, compared with 946,459 bushels to-day. But from the latter should be deducted 100,000 bushels from St. Louis for two days' receipts.

The export clearances yesterday at four Atlantic ports were wheat 249,323 bushels and flour to an aggregate of 775,000 bushels.

"Marching clubs" won't do the business this year.

Lord Tennyson died on the anniversary of the death of Charles Stewart Parnell, October 5, 1891.

Republican orators and editors will now gig back to abuse of Georgia and Florida. There is no hope for them from that quarter.

Labor Commissioner Peck delays the "judicial vindication" he professed to be anxious for, by every possible legal move. There is but one explanation of such remarkable contrariness.

Toledo will celebrate in grand style. Let patriotism be the sentiment in every feature—a thankfulness that devout Christopher Colombo was guided to the great unknown land which is, to-day, our splendid inheritance.

Candidate Whitelaw Reid, of Ophir farm, assures his fellow-agriculturists that the high tariff and the lack of free silver coinage do not interfere in any degree with his prosperity. Then what is the farmers' alliance kicking about?—Chicago News Record.

Don't ask any more questions, please, good mistaken Alliance people. Isn't Whitelaw Reid a "farmer?" Doesn't he know?

The Venezuelan revolutionists are pretty well atop. The insurgent, Crespow, is in Caracas to-day with his victorious army. The Chicago is close ashore with guns trained, ready to protect Americans, if necessary. Special correspondents say the end is not yet. Alas for Pan Americanism and arbitration. It is pretty on paper and in oratory, but the South Americans have small knowledge of the true significance of such policy.

"Free trade," says Senator Joseph R. Hawley, "is the surviving partner of slavery."

"Every reduction of the tariff," said President Garfield, "should be in the direction of free trade."

Would Mr. Hawley conclude, from these premises, that the country, under Garfield republicanism, would move backwards towards slavery times? A queer little hand-book could be made of the utterances of leading republicans on the tariff question. Yet, when the mad McKinleyites orate, they claim all these low tariff advocates as the glory of the party.

It is, indeed, to his credit, that Gov. Ashley was a friend of Abraham Lincoln, but that has nothing to do with present day issues, any more than has the rank turtle soup and thin relishes of less ancient history. The country, state and district have outlived the ante-bellum period and offices are not distributed like medals of honor, especially offices that demand the activity and alertness of present conditions. Mr. Ashley is not the fittest man for the place he seeks to attain by virtue of money and a much puffed-up past record, and the voters of this district pretty well understand this and the reasons why it is true. There is no sentiment in politics.

THE GREATEST DANGER OF ALL.

Ex-Attorney-General Wayne McVeigh gives cogent reason for his change of political base. He sees with alarm, as every patriot must, the growth of corruption through the high-tariff conspiracy of give and take, between the beneficiaries of the system and those of the party that legislates for them. He says:

But the economic evils, however great, of the McKinley bill, and the unreasonable system of protection it represents, are of far less importance to my mind than the moral evils which follow in their wake. * * * While such a system endures, political corruption is absolutely sure to increase, as such a system not only invites but it requires the corrupt use of money both at the polls and in congress.

THE GREAT ADMINISTRATOR.

While Mr. Carnegie's locked-out workmen, with whom he refused to divide booty, (preferring to hire thugs to shoot them down) were being arrested in this country for "treason to the state," he was posing before a crowd of Scotch people, at Ayr, and saying:

I feel more strongly bound than ever to devote the remaining years of my life to aims ending in self and more to the service of others, using my surplus wealth and spare time in the manner most likely to produce the greatest good to the masses of the people. From these masses comes the wealth which is trusted to the owner only as administrator.

The Scotch are pre-eminently kind and proverbially undemonstrative, but the workingmen who gave groans for applause to this cant can be forgiven.

DEATH OF A CONVICT.

Columbus, O., Oct. 7.—George Burke, a notorious convict, died in the penitentiary. He was serving his fourth term from Jefferson county. His first sentence was in 1876 for forgery, four and one-half years. He was out but four months when he went back for burglary for five years. He was sent back immediately for robbery for five years. His last sentence was for [illegible] years. He was received in February, 1891.

"FREE TRADE SLAVERY."

The Working People of England Under Protection.

Editor Bee: Under the above heading, your contemporary, the Toledo Blade, contains an article treating on the condition of the working people in England, ascribing all the poverty there existing to the free trade policy of that country. I will give the writer credit for doing justice (?) in drawing the picture as black as any circumstances would justify.

My purpose is to make a fair, unbiased comparison of the condition of the working people in England to-day, as against that of the days of protection.

The authority of the writer in the Blade, from his own admissions, are facts he might glean traversing the "black country" for a period of five weeks, for he left New York in July, landed in Liverpool in August, arriving in New York on his return September 15. Thus five weeks would be the longest time he could claim to gain the field of knowledge which he tries to have the American people believe he has gained. It has not been my privilege to make any flying visits, with a camera, to England, for five weeks, but it has been my privilege to live there 27 years out of 31 years of my life, and also my privilege to have parents who have had a practical experience of both policies, viz.: the "days of starvation" and the present comparative prosperous days of free trade.

My protest is not to the fact that destitution prevails there; it abides in all countries, even in prosperous America, but what I do emphatically deny is, that the present destitution of England is attributable to free trade.

He says: "I picked up Whitaker's Almanac and found from its pages that there were 974,421 paupers in Great Britain in a population of 35,246,562. That is one to every 36 people—2.8 per cent. of the whole."

How absolutely devoid of fairness the writer is will be seen, when the figures of 1841 are given, and that, too, when protection was at its highest mark, and when, according to protectionist ideas, prosperity should abound on all hands.

In 1841 the population of Great Britain numbered 26,487,026; number of paupers, 934,419, or one in 28, or just over 4 per cent. of the whole. Now, if free trade is the cause of the present pauper list, what caused its enormity in 1841, and what gives them a decreased pauper list of nearly 2 per cent?

I cannot think it is the want of knowledge of these facts which led the writer to omit them in his article, and such omissions will satisfy the unprejudiced reader that something behind the desire to make known the condition of the English people is what actuated the writing of same.

Let me give a further illustration of what prevailed in the good (?) old days of protection. When the price of home grown wheat was less than 80 per cent. ($20) per quarter (of eight bushels, of 60 pounds), the import duty was levied so as to enhance the value of imported wheat to that maximum, and while this high-handed robbery was being tolerated, thousands of people were starving for the want of the necessaries of life. Is it any wonder we read of massacre, and the firing of cities, by the maddened people, while singing the following lines:

> Make haste, slow rogues! prohibit trade,
> Prohibit honest gain,
> Turn all the good that God hath made,
> To fear, and hate, and pain;
> Till beggars all, assassins all,
> All cannibals we be,
> And death shall have no funeral
> From shipless sea to sea?
>
> Haste! Havoc's torch begins to glow—
> The ending is begun,
> Make haste! Destruction thinks ye slow,
> Make haste to be undone.
> Why are ye called my lord and 'squire,
> While fed by mine and me,
> And wringing food, and clothes, and fire
> From bread taxed misery?

Kindly ask me, if you will, to give my opinion on the people reverting to the days of protection. A thousand, times no! Whatever might do for America, free trade in England must always exist. It has clothed the naked, fed the starving, led to the people's franchise, and given them the power to vote; was the initiatory to free education, and (on the authority of Wm. Ewart Gladstone), has increased the wages of the workers to an equivalent of 50 per cent. Why, I ask, should they go back to protection?

A. BAVIS.

Portage, O., Oct. 6, '92.

THAT CHECK REIN.

A valued contributor who endorses what the Bee has often said on the subject, sends the following clipping from a Manlius, N. Y., paper for republication:

Over five hundred veterinary surgeons have signed a paper condemning tight check reins, as painful to horses and productive to disease, causing distortion to the wind pipe to such a degree as to impede respiration. They mention paralysis of the muscles of the face, megrims, apoplexy, coma and inflamation as some of the results of its use. The over check rein will often cause a horse to become kneesprung. It destroys the delicate sensitiveness to the bit which is most desirable in guiding a horse. Dr. Kitching says: "If a horse pulling a load has his head held in by a check-rein, he cannot throw his weight into his collar, and is hindered from giving his body that position which is most natural and effective." He goes on to speak of the consequent strain of his limbs and muscles, and the injury caused by the constrained position of the head, whereby the breathing and circulation are affected, and the horse made restless, irritable and uncomfortable. He says: "The check-rein inflicts unceasing torture upon the animal in another way. By holding the head upwards; it puts the muscles of the neck on a constrain. They become painfully uneasy and tired. If the horse cannot bear it, he rests the weight of his head upon the rein, and his mouth is violently stretched. Thus he only exchanges one torment for another. To sum up in a word, the check-rein lessens a horse's strength; brings on disease; keeps him in pain; frets and injures his mouth and spoils his temper."

THE CENTRAL LABOR UNION

Choose Mr. Fellows as President of That Body.

The Central Labor union held the fortnightly meeting last evening in Carpenter's hall with good attendance.

The delegates admitted were Mr. Seeholger of the Clerks' Mutual Protective union, Mr. Haines of the Talleymen's union.

Reports were received from the committees appointed to investigate the brewers' and street car men's troubles. They reported that the trouble in both unions had been satisfactorily settled.

The Homestead trouble was discussed, and it was reported that the strikers were in a starving condition.

A gentleman who has recently visited Homestead, said the rumor was a falsehood, and that the men are hopeful of gaining the victory.

The Iron Moulders' union reported having sent $40 to the strikers.

A committee from the International association of Machinists was present and stated that on Wednesday evening, October 12, the association would hold an open meeting in Carpenter's hall, which would be addressed by the grand foreman of the association, Mr. H. E. Easton, of Omaha.

The election of president of the central body to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. R. F. Booth, resulted as everybody expected it would, in the choice of the vice president, Mr. William Fellows.

Mr. Fellows will make a good presiding officer; he has at heart the interests of the body, and his election gives general satisfaction in labor circles.

Mr. Lewis Salkeld, of the Machinists' association, No. 105, was elected vice president.

A committee consisting of Messrs. Carr, Strohlem, Campfield, Smith and Russell was appointed to arrange for an open meeting to be held at Carpenter's hall, by the Central Labor union, in the near future.

There will be some good speaking and a good time.

THE BROER TRIAL

Taken Up Again in Probate Court After Mach Delay.

William Nichols on the Stand and Tells of His Transactions With Mr. Broer.

The Broer examination was resumed in probate court this morning, after many continuances.

William Nichols, the party who negotiated Mr. Broer's goods for cash, was called to the witness stand, having been sworn on a previous occasion. He demanded his fees in advance, but the court held he had been sworn and could not under the law receive his fees in advance. He then related his transactions with Mr. Broer.

The first lot of goods that he received from Broer amounted to between $1,700 and $1,800, Broer's prices. This was all diamonds. His instructions from Broer on every occasion were to get as much as possible, but to never accept less than 75 per cent.

This lot was placed with a diamond broker of Detroit by the name of Ives, upon which he realized $1,100 or $1,200.

The second lot was received from Broer about six weeks after the first. Broer wanted him to raise $2,000, and gave him $2,500 worth of goods to do it with. This lot was disposed of to a Minneapolis man whom he met in Chicago. He realized between 60 and 70 per cent of the price fixed by Broer.

Mr. Read wanted to know why he did not get more for the goods.

Nichols replied that he was compelled to take these prices or not dispose of the goods. He claims that the parties who sold the diamonds to Broer charged him from 20 to 25 per cent. more than they were worth. To sell them he was compelled to let them go at prices that would permit the purchaser to sell to dealers and make a profit which meant at least a reduction of 15 per cent. The man whom he sold this lot to had a reputation as a diamond dealer. He obtained about $1,500. This deal was made some time during May or June just passed. He turned the cash over to Broer, and considered that he had received a fair price for the diamonds. Some of the stones were yellow, and cost $65 a karat, which he could duplicate at $45. He only charged Broer actual expenses for negotiating this deal.

In testifying as to the third lot Nichols said he had not charged his mind as to the various transactions, not expecting to be called upon to testify. On this occasion Broer gave him $2,000 worth of goods at his prices. The price he said was always marked on each package. The lot he sold to Ives, of Detroit, with a privilege of redeeming at 30 days, at a cost of 10 per cent. On this lot he raised $1,300, which amount he turned over to Broer the next day.

The next lot he took to Detroit. Broer gave him $2,000 worth this time. He said they were inferior stones and he could not find a buyer and returned the goods Broer had paid too much for them.

The next lot was composed of inferior and superior stones. These were taken to Detroit, but not disposed of as Broer's prices were too high and he was unable to get anywhere near what Broer paid for them.

The next bunch he sold in Chicago at a reduction of 60 per cent. on the price fixed by Broer. He realized $2,000 on this lot. He did not know the party's name to whom he sold the goods.

The next lot was sold to a St. Louis man at the Boody house in Toledo. He received about $1,100. The buyer was a railroad man and lived in St. Louis.

At one time Broer gave him about $15 or $20 worth of watches worth about $7 apiece, to dispose of. These he sold at auction in Chicago.

On all of the transactions he realized about $7,000 in money for Broer, on goods, always diamonds, with but one or two exceptions. Three of the sales made had strings to them, or could be redeemed, but the time had expired on all but one. The goods put up with the St. Louis man could be redeemed for about $1,200, which was all the stock was worth.

He reiterated Mr. Broer's testimony as to the $200 note, and said he bought it direct of Mr. Broer and sold it to Mr. Knisely on his own account. He claimed he did not take a $600 note to Mr. Knisely.

Court then adjourned until 9 o'clock tomorrow morning.

SQUABBLE BETWEEN PARENTS

As to the Place of Interment for Their Little Child.

An unusual scene occurred yesterday afternoon in the home of Frank K. Dwight at 209 Oliver street. Mr. Dwight is a Protestant and his wife an ardent Catholic. Their little 6-year-old child died a few days ago and a controversy arose over the place of burial. The father wanted the body interred in Forest cemetery, and Mrs. Dwight wanted the remains buried in Calvary cemetery.

Six companions of the child have been selected as pall bearers, but when they entered the house for the purpose of carrying the casket to the hearse they were driven from the room, it is alleged, by friends of Mrs. Dwight.

Quite a large crowd of people had congregated in and about the house, and it was feared that serious trouble might result unless the authorities interferred. The chief of police was, therefore, notified, and in a short time Officers Rabe, Hadley, Bliss and Hinde appeared on the scene and assisted in carrying out the wishes of the father. The officers first dispersed the crowd and then saw the casket safely conveyed to the hearse, after which the funeral procession started for Forest cemetery. During the ride to the cemetery Mr. and Mrs. Dwight occupied the same carriage.

There was another scene as the body was being placed in the vault, but three officers who had followed the procession to the cemetery, preserved order and prevented any further interruption or interference with the father's wishes.

THAT COMBINE

In the Police Board—Three Is More Than Two, But It's Not Always Enough.

Charlie Stager busted the republican combination at the police board meeting Wednesday night. The scheme was to dismiss Dr. Whiteford and put Dr. Reynolds in his place, but Mr. Stager raised the point that it would be necessary to have a two-thirds vote to do so without sustaining charges, and that three votes—the maximum republican strength—was not two-thirds of five, the total number of votes in the board. The republicans were therefore stopped for the time being pending a decision from the city solicitor.

Doville had a little scheme, too. He wanted Hewitt let off with a reprimand, but wanted to have Dwyer dismissed if Hewitt was. This was also knocked in the head.

Stager and Potter are in the minority, but they gain their points just the same with commendable regularity.

The funniest part of the whole farce is to see Waring manipulated by Doville with the expectation that he (Waring) will be nominated for mayor in the spring if he helps carry out the republican "reform" policy.

The next police board will be democratic.

THE NEW YORK SUN RETRACTS

Its Story Published a Year Ago about Madam Blavatsky.

Last July the New York Sun published a communication by Dr. E. F. Coues of Washington, which contained allegations against the character of Madame Blavatsky, the leader of the Theosophists, and her followers. The Madame brought suit for libel, but her death closed the legal procedure in the case. In the Sun of September 26, is a voluntary retraction of what it admits "should never have been printed, as the allegations are not sustained by evidence." The tardy act of justice cannot affect the leader of the Theosophists, but others involved are among the living and the retraction should at least be given as wide publication as was the scandalous article. To emphasize its entire belief in the error it had committed, the Sun publishes a two-column sketch of the life of Blavatsky, written by W. Q. Judge, and called attention to the fact that the narrative effectually disproves the allegations.

Toledo has a circle of apostles and students of theosophy, persons held in high esteem, and is glad to make mention of the matter for them as well as for the general reader who desires to keep posted on current events. And more than all to right a wrong that has been done by a scandalous report of any person or persons.

MORNING SESSION

Of the Ohio Association of the New Church.

Interesting Address Delivered by the President on the Cause of the Slow Growth of the Church.

The second day's exercises of the thirty-ninth annual meeting of the Ohio association opened in Turley's hall this morning with a meeting of the executive committee, followed by a meeting of the board of missions.

At 11 o'clock Rev. John Goddard, of Cincinnati, the general pastor, called the association to order, and after devotional exercises, began the annual address.

He took for his subject the slow growth of the New church, which he said was discouraging to many people.

The chief and underlying reason is that the church demands more than people are willing to give. It teaches no royal road to heaven, no easy forgiveness of sins. We need to bring into the foreground of our affection, the Lord in his divine being. He wished that bound on our foreheads and on our wrists were the words, "Without me ye can do nothing." It is the key to the development of the New church.

The doctrine of Calvinism that taught that God damned whom he pleased of his own free will, and the doctrine of Arminianism that taught eternal and terrible punishment for disobedience, repressed the good impulses in people.

The New church teaching has given them an understanding of what a deep reality is the Savior's love.

But it is often misunderstood. As easy as it is to give a sentence a wrong meaning by wrong punctuation or emphasis, so easy is it to misjudge the New church by wrong interpretation, or emphasis.

He thought if the question, Why is the New church growth slow? could be answered from heaven, that answer would be, "It is because of your forgetfulness of Him upon whom the church is built."

To increase in numbers and strength and to grow in Christian grace, three things are necessary: to look to the Lord for all things; to shun evil as sin, and to act sincerely, justly and faithfully.

Mr. Goddard closed with some practical suggestions for the building up of societies, and when he had finished, Rev. E. D. Daniels announced that word had been received from Rev. A. F. Frost, of Detroit, that the serious illness of his wife would prevent him from being present.

Rev. Frost was to have lectured this evening and preached to-morrow morning, and his place will have to be supplied by other ministers.

To-morrow afternoon a reception will be held and in the evening, Prof. L. H. Tafel, of Urbana university, will lecture on "New Church Education."

The lectures and sermons are open to all.

The singing is congregational, and the chanting is beautiful.

Miss Susie Woodruff presided at the organ to-day.

This afternoon Rev. Daniels is speaking on missionary work.

THE LITTLE SCHOOLMARM.

I've done discussing schoolmarms, their punishments, and such,
And all their ways and doings don't fret me very much,
For I'd a true experience a year or two ago;
I learned a few things, gentlemen, that I was glad to know.

Our little lad came home from school, his eyes all wet with tears,
It took us half the noontime to quiet down his fears.
He said that she had whipped him, that she was cross and old—
She never did a single thing but sit and fuss and scold.

The little one was innocent—I started for the school
To tell her who and what I was and lay her down a rule;
The afternoon was very hot, my temper hotter still,
And it had reached a boiling point when I had climbed the hill.

I had my speech all ready; I started for the door,
I guess she saw me coming, for she was there before,
And met me all a-smiling, with a welcome in her eyes,
I was the one to tremble, I found to my surprise.

The light was on her forehead, the light was on her hair,
The light was all around her, like a glory everywhere.
Her eyes were like blue meadow flowers, we loved when we were small,
Her gown, the self same color, and she wasn't very tall.

I couldn't say a single word, my mouth was parched and dry,
I nodded her, "Good afternoon," and slowly passed her by.
"Come in and rest;" the sweetest voice that I had ever heard,
The mingling of a baby's laugh and the singing of a bird.

That night 'twixt eight and nine o'clock, I let the shingle fall,
And since that time we've never had a single fuss at all.
So when you speak of schoolmarms as being cross and bold,
She rises up before me, all shining blue and gold.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

MATRIMONIAL OBSTACLES.

Fear of the Pecuniary Consequences of Wedded Life.

That an obstacle exists to marriage, says the London Spectator, is admitted on all hands, and in certain classes is evident to the eyes of all who observe, and there is a common consent—running, for example, through all these series of letters, written evidently by men and women belonging to nearly every grade of the middle class—as to what that obstacle is. The young men do not earn sufficient income early enough.

The talk about the selfishness of men, their comfort as bachelors, their desire for liberty is, most of it, talk merely. Selfish men of the usual comfort-loving type—that is, the majority—always marry if they can; they are much more comfortable, the means being assured, married than unmarried; and we should say that, on the whole, and making reserve as regards one or two rather limited classes, there is distinctly less desire for "liberty," in the sense of license, than there was 40 years ago. The majority would marry if they could; and the single reason why they do not, or, rather, why they marry later, is an increase in the fear of the consequences, the pecuniary consequences, of marrying. This increase we believe to have been very great, so great as to alter the accepted social idea as to the fitting age for marrying, and it has arisen from a great variety of causes; one is that, owing to the diminished hardness of household customs and a certain tendency both toward more lenient training and a longer period of it, men continue boys much longer than they used; linger longer in their parents' houses, and are regarded both by themselves and their relatives as inexperienced up to a much later period. They are hardly "men," as distinguished from "youths"—a useful old word which has suddenly been left to schoolmasters and prigs—until they are 30; whereas they used to be men, often heads of households at 25. The beginning of real life has come to be later, probably to the great advantage, in some ways, of the new generation—they certainly, by the consent of all who observe, wear out later—but with the disadvantage of postponing their marriages, and so diminishing the apparent number of those who marry.

Another cause, and a most marked one, is that the young men are distinctly soberer than they were, taking a more serious view of life, and realize more clearly what the responsibilities of a household are. Being more reflective they were more cowardly—one correspondent of the Daily News, an assistant master in a public school, frankly puts "cowardice" as his culminating reason for abstaining from marriage, less ready to run risks, either for themselves or for the kind of girls whom they would like to marry.

A London paper mentioning a recent anarchist meeting, says that speeches were delivered in Yiddish. This is a term employed to designate the queer mixture of Hebrew, German and other words that is called jargon in New York. Jargon is so extensively spoken and read in that city that it is profitable to issue several newspapers in that language. The expression, "our esteemed Jargon contemporary," is occasionally found in the Jewish papers of the higher class, and its use does not imply any disposition to speak slightingly.

ENORMOUS LOSS IN WAR.

Millions of Men Killed and Billions of Dollars Spent in Thirty Years.

It appears, according to the estimates of French and German statisticians, that there have perished in the wars of the last thirty years 2,500,000 men, while there has been expended to carry them no less than the inconceivable sum of $13,000,000,000. Of this amount France has paid nearly $3,500,000,000 as the cost of the war with Prussia, while her loss in men is placed at 155,000. Of these 80,000 were killed on the field of battle, 36,000 died of sickness, accident, or suicide, and 20,000 in German prisons, while there died from other causes enough to bring the number up to the given aggregate. The sick and wounded amounted to 477,421, the lives of many thousands of whom were doubtless shortened by their illness or injuries. According to Dr. Roth, a German authority, the Germans lost during the war 60,000 men killed or rendered invalid, and $600,000,000 in money, this being the excess of expenditure or of material losses over the $1,250,000,000 paid by France by way of indemnity.

Dr. Engel, another German statistician, gives the following as the approximate cost of the principal wars of the last thirty years: Crimean war, $2,000,000,000; Italian war of 1859, $300,000,000; Prusso-Danish war of 1864, $35,000,000; war of the rebellion—north, $5,100,000,000; south, $2,300,000,000; Prusso-Austrian war of 1866, $330,000,000; Russo-Turkish war, $125,000,000; South African wars, $8,770,000; African war, $12,250,000; Servo-Bulgarian, $176,000,000. All these wars were murderous in the extreme. The Crimean war in which few battles were fought, cost 750,000 lives—only 50,000 less than were killed or died of their wounds, north and south, during the war of the rebellion. The figures, it must be remembered, are German and might not agree precisely with the American estimates. The Mexican and Chinese expeditions cost $200,000,000 and 65,000 lives. There were 250,000 killed and mortally wounded during the Russia-Turkey war and 45,000 each in the Italian war of 1859 and the war between Prussia and Austria. In the other wars the loss of life was relatively less, which did not make either the men or money easier to part with in the more limited areas where they occurred. And this is but a part of the accounting, since it does not include the millions expended during the last thirty years in maintaining the vast armaments of the European powers, the losses caused by stoppage of commerce and manufactures, and the continual derangement of industries by the abstraction from useful employment of so many millions of persons held for a period of military service extending from three to five years.

Bees, according to a statistican, must, in order to collect a pound of clover honey, deprive 62,000 clover blossoms of their nectar. To do this the 62,000 flowers must be visited by an aggregate of 3,750,000 bees; or, in other words, to collect his pound of honey one bee must make 3,750,000 trips from and to the hive. As bees are known to fly for miles in quest of suitable fields of operation, it is clear that a single ounce of honey represents millions of miles of travel.

NOTICE.

Fernando A. Crumb and Leila Crumb, his wife, whose place of residence is unknown, will take notice that on the 3rd day of September, 1892, Edward D. Moore as plaintiff, filed his petition in the Court of Common Pleas of Lucas County, Ohio, against them and others, the object and prayer of which is to foreclose two certain mortgages made by one William H. England to said Edward D. Moore on lot (25) twenty-five, block (24) twenty-four, Hicks Farm Addition to Toledo, Lucas County, Ohio. One made on the 3rd day of January A. D., 1891, to secure the payment of six promissory notes, each in the sum of $100, all dated January 3, 1891, and payable to said Edward D. Moore or order on the 1st day of July of the years 1892, 1893, 1894, 1895, 1896 and 1897, respectively, with interest from January 3rd, 1891, at six per cent. per annum, to be paid annually. The other mortgage made on the 26th day of March, 1891, to secure the payment of one promissory note of same date for $50, payable to said Edward D. Moore or order on or before two years from the date thereof, with interest from said date at six per cent. per annum, to be paid annually. Said petition alleges that said Fernando A. Crumb holds the legal title to said above described lot subject to the plaintiff's mortgage liens thereon. Said petition prays for the sale of said real estate to pay the sums due on said notes.

Said defendants are required to answer or plead to said petition on or before the 21st day of November, A. D., 1892.

A HEAVENLY BIRTHDAY.

Dost thou keep count and say, in thy far place,
"This birthday is the first since that dark hour
When on my breast was laid Love's funeral flower?"
Thou hast won all, in the immortal race—
Conquerer of life, and death, and time, and space—
And I, a lagging beaten runner, cower,
While round me mocking memories jeer and lower,
And from thy far world comes no helpful grace:
Thou dost not whisper that those heights are cold
Where I walk not beside thee, and the night
Of death is long. Nay, I am over-bold:—
Thou sittest comforted and healed with light;
And young and glad; and I who wait am old;
Yet will I find thee, even in Death's despite.
—Louise Chandler Moulton, in Harper's Magazine.

WANTED, AN EATER.

The advertisement read:

WANTED—FOUR YOUNG LADIES; MUST be fine looking and of engaging manners.

I went. The establishment was an eating-saloon. Everything in it was brand new and quite tasteless—gaudy. A shiny, veneered partition to one side had a gold-lettered sign glued to it—"Cash Department."

Under this sign was a little window set upon a marble slab, and in the little window the face and shoulders of a man.

The face was very red, very wringled, and very fierce. The head to which the face belonged was very small, with scanty, stiff black hair on end all over it.

As I came in, the man put his little head out of his little window and looked eagerly and fiercely at me. I walked up to his window and told him why I came. He could see but the upper part of me.

"Stand back," he said. I did so and he looked me over.

"I want girls," he said, "but can you eat?"

His question surprised me. Most girls can. I could. Just then I was very hungry. I was embarrassed; not by my inability to eat, but by his question. I hesitated.

"Am I to eat here, sir?" I asked, tremblingly.

"Eat? Of course!" said he.

Now, I did not understand what he wanted me for, but I did understand, I thought, that he was speculating (with a view to economy) upon my ability and inclination to devour much or to live upon nothing. So I answered: "I am a very small eater, sir."

"Won't do!" said he.

I was sorely disappointed. Tears came to my eyes. My eyelids and my lips, too, trembled.

"Don't cry—in here!" he said fiercely. "Don't cry! Sorry—very sorry—can't help it—don't suit—won't do! Look well—you're a beauty—very sorry—can't engage you."

"My manners, sir," I said, "are good—engaging. If you could see me wait at table, say for one day, if that is what you want help for—"

"Wait for nothing—nothing! Got waiters—lots! Don't suit—won't do!"

Curiosity, as well as want, stimulated me to ask the fierce little man: Why don't I suit you?

Then fiercer than ever before, he said: "Don't bother—any more! Small eater—don't suit—won't do!" And he slammed a book upon his marble moved away from his little window—to get rid of me.

Angered by his unreasonable rebuffs, knowing he would hear me behind his gaudy partition, I said while moving toward the door:

"What meanness! If I had an opportunity I would eat you out of house and home!"

"Hey? What's 'at?" he yelled as he bounced back into his little window and stuck his fierce little head through it at me. "What's 'at?" Eat house and home? Hey? Hey?"

Before I knew it he was by my side on the adjoining side. He seized my hand and half pulled, half coaxed me back again.

In no time, before I could think or prevent it, he had me back into his place, and closed the door and planted himself against it.

"House and home—you said, you—eat some one—out of? Did you? Didn't you? Hey? Hey?"

When I could gather a sufficiency of my scattered wits together to do it, I replied definitely: "I would! I said I would if you employed me!"

"I'll take you! You're engaged! D'ye hear? Hey? Hey?"

"I do," I answered.

"Now what, beside eating, do you desire that I should do, sir?" I asked.

"Do? Eat! Nothing else! Eat—all day long—and deep into—the night."

"No waiting on the tables, no dishwashing, no cleaning or scrub—"

"Nonsense! No! Got people for that—easy! Blamed hard though get good looking—girls to eat. Been fourteen here 'smorning—all small eaters—you're first one—big eater! You're engaged! Hey? Hey? Are you?"

Now I began to have a glimmering of my importance. So, animated I asked: "What do you pay, sir?"

"Pay you—mind, you're engaged—pay you—$4—per week. You're engaged—are you? Hey? Hey?"

"I am engaged to you, sir," I complacently replied, "if you will make it six."

"Too much. Can't do it. Four—"

I had moved toward the door. He bounded to it and again put his back against it.

"Stop! stop!" he cried; "blamed hard. All right. Make it six."

"And when, sir, if you please, am I to begin?"

"Now! Sit here—this window—I'll ring. Waiter comes. You order. Here's a bill of fare. You eat. Go out. Walk around a block. Come in. Order. Eat again. Go out—come in. Eat—keep it up."

He touched a bell, a waiter appeared, I ordered something and ate it. He—the fierce little proprietor of the restaurant—again retired behind his gaudy partition, and then his beard and shoulders reappeared in the little window where they spent the day.

During its course he, with my efficient aid, engaged (at $4 a week and not paid in advance) three additional girls, who joined me in the arduous employment assigned me.

It was his plan to obtain customers for his restaurant by demonstrating to the public that he did some business he hoped to attract it and do more.

He kept us four coming in, eating and going out. He had a friends and confidant a couple of blocks away, with whom he left an assortment of hats and wraps; we went there and changed our appearance between "eats."

It was a brilliant scheme of intricate conception and of masterful execution, but for all that it failed of its purpose. The sheriff closed us up in four weeks.

I did as I pleased, pretty much, while it lasted; only he stipulated that I should allow no love-making on the part of the waiters. And I never did.

But he made love to me, and I allowed that; for, in spite of his fierceness, he was a dear, soft-hearted little fellow, who obliged and favored me in all I asked of him.

And that is how I—at least helped—eat a man out of house and home.—J. C. Lavalliere.

Harriet Beecher Stowe pathetically writes of the death of Whittier: "To such as he the transition from this world to the next is but slight. It would be selfish to sorrow. Ours is the loss and his the eternal gain. I wish I might send a fitting tribute but my days are almost numbered, and my pen halts in my hand."

Miss Gertrude Howe, for 20 years a missionary of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society in central China, has returned to this country, bringing with her five bright young Chinese students, two young women and three young men, to complete their education and take a medical course at Ann Arbor.

GIRLS WHO RUN.

It used to be said, writes "A Male Observer" to Woman, that there were two things which a woman could not do. One was to run; the other to throw a stone. Up to now she has not learned to do the latter feat, but at the former she is—provided she can run at all—an adept. The last generation of girls could not run. They were forbidden by all the canons of good behavior and propriety to go faster than a walk, like a team crossing a country bridge. If by any mischance it became absolutely necessary for them to run, the way they went at it was calculated to make a man weep. They wriggled, they waddled, they stepped on the sides of their feet, then they held their heads down to hide their blushes. The "running girl" now can catch a 'bus, and subside into a seat breathing as gently as an infant. Unless some special poet arises we need not hope to see justice done them by words of description. Until then we lay this tribute at the feet—the very pretty feet—of the girl who runs to catch a passing 'bus or to escape from a sudden shower.

Photographing under water has actually been carried out. Experiments were made in 1889 in the Mediterranean to ascertain how far daylight penetrated under water. In very clear water, near Corsica, and 18 miles from land, the limit of daylight was found by means of photographic plates to be 1,580 feet.

George Jeffreys, who lives near Burlington, N. C., has a covey of young partridges that came to him in a peculiar way. His cat went into the field and captured a mother partridge which had a brood of young ones. Rather than be left alone, the young partridges followed the cat home and Jeffreys caught them.

Of the 2,322 Swiss factories which employed motive power at the close of 1888, 1,114 exclusively employed water power, and only 658 exclusively steam power, while 457 employed both water and steam; and, taken all together, these factories used 54,243 horse power of water and 27,432 of steam, and only 717 of gas and electricity.

In 22 of the largest cities in the United States 17,427 women who are working for a living were questioned by government agents. Of these 15,388 are single and the average age is 22 years and 7 months. They represent 343 occupations and their average wages are $5.51 a week. A partial census in 1886 showed the average wages to be $4.95.

The two natural objects seem to have furnished the model for the spoon to primitive man, the river or sea shell and the leaf of plants. In southern China shell spoons are still used that are closely reproduced in the familiar porcelain spoon of that country, while metal spoons are found in India on which are produced even the veins of the leaves from which they are copied.

"The life of a minor poet is not always a pleasant one," says one of them. It is hard enough to get small prices for your poetry (when you get any price at all), but what do you think of this request that has just come to me? I am invited to compose a poem for an 'occasion' out in the country, and my hosts sends me a subject and says: 'It needn't be poetry, if you haven't time—only verses. You can be so witty when you have a mind to.'"

An English woman sued the Midland Railway company for compensation for the loss of her husband, who was killed in an accident on that road, and recovered damages. Thereupon the company, which had sold him an accident insurance policy with his ticket, contended that the amount of this insurance should be deducted from the damages awarded, since if he had died a natural death, the widow would have received nothing on a policy of that nature. The claim of the company was not allowed.

The small natural bridge that was once a feature in the rugged shore line just above Westport, on Lake Champlain, seems to have disappeared. It reminds one of that natural bridge on the shore of a rocky western lake. It was "a card" as a local attraction till a severe storm in winter blew it down. Unwilling to lose such a necessary attraction, the neighbors carefully rebuilt it, which might easily enough have been a harmless and successful deception; but visitors to the bridge the following season were thunderstruck to read this sign: "Natural bridge erected by John and Wm. Simonds."

The cost of the Manchester ship canal has already exceeded the original estimate by $25,000,000, and the $65,000,000 already expended will not complete it. The chairman of the company declares that it must borrow $10,000,000 more from the corporation of Manchester, which has already lent $15,000,000 to complete the undertaking. It is believed that the money will be lent, as it seems folly to abandon so much sunk capital. The question whether the canal can ever pay is becoming more and more doubtful, as is also the problem whether it will benefit Manchester trade. Heavy tolls will destroy the utility of the work, yet with light tolls how is it to yield the $12,000 of profits a day, excluding Sundays, necessary to secure a dividend of 5 per cent.? The canal will, it is now confidently expected, if the fresh money is forthcoming, be open before 1893.

HE HAD GAMBLED.

Why Wm. M. Runk Took His Life.

Eighty Thousand Dollars of the Firm's Funds Had Been Squandered by Him.

Philadelphia, Oct. 7.—It has transpired that the cause of Mr. Runk's suicide was the using of $80,000 of the firm's money in stock speculation. A week ago Mr. Darlington returned from Europe. During his absence Mr. Runk had been dealing in stocks. Friends observed that he had changed his conservative habits and was an absorbed handler of the stock tape at the hotels. He became a very familiar figure on Third street and in and about some of the minor exchanges which run in opposition to the main exchange in the Drexel building.

It appears that Mr. Runk, whose own personal estate is represented to be a very handsome one, did not make these ventures with his own funds, but, aided by the absence of Mr. Darlington, he used $80,000 of the firm's money.

Upon Mr. Darlington's return he made natural inquiries as to the course of business while he was abroad and was informed by Mr. Runk that certain bills which had accumulated in the interval, aggregating the amount stated above, had been paid.

When the discovery was made yesterday that such was not the case Mr. Runk went directly to his handsome home at St. Davids, 13 miles from the city, on the Pennsylvania main line. His wife was exceedingly solicitous over his great depression and tried to cheer him up.

Later in the evening he wrote two letters and left them upon his library table. The two letters were addressed respectivly to Mrs. Runk and to Mr. Darlington and acquainted them with the cause for the suicide.

RHODE ISLAND.

Republican Convention Held at Providence.

Providence, R. I., Oct. 7.—The state republican convention was called to order by Hunter C. White, chairman of the state central committee. George A. Littlefield of Providence was chosen temporary chairman and Eugene F. Warren of Coventry, secretary. Later the temporary organization was made permanent.

A platform was adopted approving the declarations of the national convention, the present tariff laws, silver coinage policy, efforts for a free ballot and proposition regarding immigration restriction, and civil service reform of the national republican administration. The administration of President Harrison was commended and sympathy expressed for his domestic trouble.

The following presidential electors were nominated: Louis L. Lorrillard, W. C. Roelker, Joshua Wilbour and W. H. Haskell.

COMMITTED SUICIDE.

A Newark Man Hangs Himself in the Woods.

Newark, N. J., Oct. 7.—The body of the man who was found hanging from a tree in the orange mountains has been identified as that of Edward Reithbarth, a prominent saloon keeper of No. 250 Bank street, this city.

He was arrested several months ago and released on bail. Shortly after he disappeared and it was thought he had jumped his bail.

Last week the skeleton of a man was found hanging from a tree near Eagle Rock, Orange. The flesh had rotted away and the clothing were in shreds. The bones were buried and pieces of the clothing taken to the morgue here, where they were to-day identified. Reithbarth had committed suicide by hanging.

THROUGH A BRIDGE.

A Bad Accident on the Missouri Pacific.

Council Grove, Kan., Oct. 7.—A freight train on the Missouri Pacific railroad met with a bad accident about 60 miles west of this place caused by the train going through a burning bridge.

The engineer, C. T. Peffer, a son of United States Senator Peffer, and Clint Howard, firman, were both instantly killed. Charles Hart, another fireman, was also badly injured. After the accident occurred the wreck took fire, burning up 13 cars of grain. Both Peffer and Howard leave families.

GAS EXPLOSION.

A Girl Saves Herself by Jumping Into a Cistern.

Oak Harbor, O., Oct. 7.—(Special.)—Quite a serious gas explosion occurred here yesterday. A room in the house of John Murphy became filled with escaping gas. His daughter, a girl 13 years of age, struck a match to start the fire. The girl's clothes ignited and she would have burned to death had she not jumped into a cistern. As it was she was badly burned.

The house burned to the ground. Insurance $500; loss about $1,000.

Late Returns Increase the Democratic Majority.

New York, Oct. 7.—The following dispatch was received at democratic national headquarters this morning:

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 7.—Hon. Wm. F. Harrity: Returns now indicate 70,000 democratic majority. Third party and republicans together have less than 20 representatives out of 175, and two state senators out of 44. Every congressional district gives a democratic majority.

PROF. SMITH.

He Must Lock Up His Biblical Beliefs.

Cincinnati, Oct. 7.—The trial of Prof. Henry P. Smith, of Lane Seminary, on the charge of unsound teaching on biblical scholarship and inspiration, is the special order of the day before the presbytery of Cincinnati in session at the First Presbyterian church to-day.

The charges, which are founded on his utterances in "Biblical Scholarship and Inspiration," created considerable trouble before the presbytery last spring, and a resolution calling for the prosecution of the professor was at that time tabled.

ON A STRIKE.

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 7.—All the street car conductors and motormen struck yesterday for an increase in wages from 14 to 18 cents an hour. There has been no disturbance further than one striker attempting to shoot a non-union conductor. The street car lines of this city are the property of A. M. Billings, of Chicago. Ten cars out of sixty are running.

SUNDAY CLOSING.

Chicago People Will Give Thanks to Congress.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—There will be an immense turnout of citizens to-night at the Auditorium on the occasion of the thanksgiving meeting over the action of congress in decreeing the close of the world's fair on Sunday.

The demonstration will be under the auspices of the American Sabbath union and the Columbian Sunday association, and will be participated in by representatives of nearly every denomination.

250TH ANNIVERSARY.

Grand Celebration at the Town of Woburn, Mass.

Woburn, Mass., Oct. 7.—Bells, bonfires and the booming of cannan ushered in the morning, Woburn's greatest of days, the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of her nativity, which occurred yesterday. The city at daylight and the early morning hours found the streets filled with people. Decorations were general and profuse, and business was wholly suspended.

Early in the day the city's invited guests began to arrive and were shown about the city and otherwise entertained.

The literary exercises opened shortly after 11 o'clock in the new armory which was crowded. Mayor Thompson presided. Rev. Franklin Carter, D. D., president of Williams college, offered prayer. Mayor Thompson then delivered an address of welcome at the conclusion of which Hon. Frank Brooke Richardson, the orator, delivered his address. When the orator had finished a quartet sang a commemorative hymn.

Then Editor James Jeffrey Roche, of the Boston Pilot, the poet of the occasion, was presented. He was warmly received and the reverent and patriotic sentiment of his verses struck a responsive chord in the hearts of all present.

AMUSEMENTS.

Fine Scenic Effects Carried by J. K. Emmet.

Revival of the "Planter's Wife" by Harry Lacy—A Good Story.

While "Fritz in Ireland" does not appeal to the public upon the grounds of the spectacular drama, yet the staging of the play has received special attention this season. Mr. J. K. Emmet understands the value of a beautiful background for his artistic presentation.

Money has not been spared in the setting on this histronic gem. The entire scenery is new and by the most famous scenic artists of the Metropolis. The curtain rises on a lovely scene on the Rhine, showing the home of "Fritz." This is but the prologue of the play, and the scene is but the introduction to the greater triumphs of the scene-painter's art.

For the first act, laid on the beautiful histronic lakes of Killarney, gives an opening to the artist, of which he has taken excellent advantage. The Irish moonlight effect is perfectly exquisite. The work of the interior scene of the second act, showing Baron Heatford's castle, is considered one of the most beautiful finished sets ever produced. The third act shows a charming landscape, with massive gateways, arches, etc., incidental to an ancient baronial estate. All this elaborate scenery is carried by the company and will be put on at Wheeler's to-morrow night.

Love-Making on the Stage.

"The art of love-making on the stage is one that few actors acquire," said an old Thespian to the Man About Town. "A woman naturally clings to a man with grace, grasping his arm with cleverly implied passion or tenderly nestling on his bosom. But a man doesn't get on to the aestheticism of the thing with the same ease and grace. Harry Lacy was a dream of a lover, though. He has a trick of weaving his arms about a woman with a sinuous, seductive movement that brought a little lump into the throat of every woman in his audience. He always preferred approaching a woman from behind and then drawing her back into arms that seemed made for that purpose. Funny thing, while on this topic. Some few seasons ago Mr. Harry Lacy had for his support a very prominent leading lady, and they hated each other worse than poison. He declared she would put pins in her bodice to stick him, and they kept up a regular quarrel the whole time they were billing and cooing and embracing in most ardent fashion. 'Don't hold me so tight, sir; you have evidently never had your arms about a lady,' she would say in a whisper. 'If you knew how thoroughly distasteful this is to me you would never accuse me of getting near you,' he would reply. Do people ever make love on the stage? Not that I know of; it is all purely business.

A Texas Steer.

Chas. H. Hoyt's most successful comedy, "Texas Steer," with clever Flora Walsh, Tim Murphy and an excellent company, will be the attraction at the Wheeler, Friday and Saturday, October 14 and 15 of next week. Hoyt fairly outdid himself when he wrote "A Texas Steer." The comedy has been a wonderful success since first produced, and is reported to be one of the leading money-makers on the road. Seats have already begun to sell and two nights of "standing room only" is what the management anticipates.

BETTER COME HOME.

Carnegie Scored by the Press of London.

The Homestead Affair Rises to Haunt Him in Far Off Scotland.

London, Oct. 7.—Newspapers representing labor interests throughout Great Britain attack Mr. Carnegie severely on account of his speech at the laying of the corner stone of his gift library in Ayr.

The Daily Chronicle says: "Mr. Carnegie might find better employment in bestowing his surplus wealth upon his American employes. It requires plenty of confidence for a man who consented to the bloodshed at Homestead to pose as a benefactor of Scotland."

The Chronicle adds that Ayr might better build its own library than rely for it on rich foreigners.

If you are Billous, take Beecham's Pills.

WILL TAKE NO CHANCES.

Cholera Must be Kept Out of Here Next Year.

New York, Oct. 7.—At a meeting of the chamber of commerce this morning President Smith, in speaking of the recent threatened cholera epidemic in this city, said that the special committee of the body who had been appointed to act in the matter, were not yet ready to report, but that when they did it would be shown that the danger is not over, but that cholera is expected to threaten us again next summer and that some plan of action will be suggested to prevent its passing quarantine.

COL. PORTER DEAD.

Beverly, Mass., Oct. 7.—Col. Francis E. Porter died here yesterday. He was 68 years old. In 1861 he was captain of the Beverly light infantry and was the first to respond and report in Boston with his command after Gov. Andrews called for volunteers. He served with distinction during the war and was promoted to be colonel. In 1868-69 he represented the town in the state legislature and was postmaster of Beverly for about 10 years.

Chicago Girls Locked in a Store Find a Novel Way to Get Out.

Three pretty young milliners, employed at Stumer, Rosenthal & Eckstein's establishment, No. 152 State street, were locked in the store for several hours last night, and it was not until 2 o'clock this morning that they were released, says the Chicago Herald. At 10 o'clock, when Manager Stumer left the place, he told the night watchman that every one had left the building. The watchman has no key, and he could not get out of the store himself, even if he desired.

An hour after Mr. Stumer had gone, the three young women, who had been trimming hats all the evening upon the fifth floor, put on their wraps to go home. They were terrified at finding the hall door bolted. One of them pounded on the door, but she could not make the watchman hear the noise. Then the trio began to beat a tattoo, at the same time calling to the watchman: "Jake! Jake! Come upstairs and let us out. We are locked in." But the watchman was sweeping away down on the first floor and he did not hear their frantic appeal.

After pounding on the door 10 or 15 minutes and receiving no response from Jake, the young women sat down and had a good cry. Big, fat tears coursed down the cheeks of a fluffy haired brunette who said her mother would be sitting up waiting for her. From tears the young women changed to laughter, and then they tried to arrest the watchman's attention with snatches of song. But he was deaf to music and industriously kept on chasing a broom over the first floor.

After they had sung "Home, Sweet Home," a dozen times without receiving any applause they stopped and began to cry "Jake! Jake!" in unison. Jake was full of business, however, and his thoughts were far from the fifth floor. In despair the young women threw their combined weight against the big door, but it never bulged. "Oh, dear," they cried out, "must we stay here all night? Jake, Jake, won't you please come upstairs and let us out?" But Jake never heard them.

It was now 12 o'clock and the imprisoned milliners, tired out with their frantic efforts to break down the oaken doors, began to shed tears again. They gave up all hope of attracting the watchman's attention, but even if he had heard them it would have done no good. One of the young women, more daring than her companions, volunteered to climb down the fire escape in the rear of the store. After reaching the ground she was to go to Manager Stumer's residence and he would come to the store and release the other two. The daring milliner threw up a window and clambered out on the fire escape, her companions wringing their hands and imploring her to be careful. She got down to the fourth floor, when her courage failed and she clambered up again like a real fireman. For the next hour they cried and laughed and sang and pounded at the door at intervals, but the watchman was too busy with the broom to hear them.

About 1 o'clock the fluffy-haired brunette hit upon a happy plan to get communication with the outside world. She was drying her eyes after having a good cry when her gaze fell upon a tin pail. The pail was to convey a message to the street below and some passer-by would see it. But they had no string to tie to the pail so that it could be lowered. One of the trio pulled off her shoe and in a jiffy she began to unravel the yarn in her stocking. The other two looked on and laughed until they cried. But she kept on unwinding the yarn from her stocking until she had enough to reach from the fifth floor to the street. Two notes were then written. One was addressed to Manager Stumer, No. 461 Jackson Boulevard, and the other to the police. The notes were put into the pail and lowered slowly to the sidewalk. As the young women expected, a passer-by saw the pail swinging in the air, and thinking that somebody was "rushing the growler," he waited until it got within 10 feet of the ground. There the pail remained. The young woman had miscalculated the distance and did not unravel quite enough yarn from her stocking. The pail dropped to the sidewalk, and in it were found the notes.

A cabman at State and Madison streets drove out to Mr. Stumer's house and brought him down in a hurry. He liberated the young women and sent them to their homes.

NO REASON FOR POSTPONEMENT

Why There Is No Danger of Cholera From World's Fair Exhibits.

The proposition seriously put forward by the New York Sun that the Chicago Exposition may have to be postponed on account of the cholera in Europe, is not justified by what we know of the mode of spread of that disease. There is no article of exhibit which will be sent from any foreign country to the world's fair, whether it be in the departments of mechanism, art, education or manufactures, which is in the least likely to be contaminated with the cholera bacillus, or which will involve any more risk to those receiving, handling or viewing it than it would in any other year.

Almost the whole danger of bringing the cholera germ into this country is connected with the poorer class of immigrants and their baggage, and with imported rags. Of course there are theoretical possibilities that some workmen affected with small-pox, diphtheria, cholera, itch, or even the Oriental plague, may have touched some article sent to the exhibit, or some piece of wrapping paper or of lumber used in packing, just as there always are, the probable danger in this respect being about the same as that incurred in handling a new necktie or any article of ready made clothing, but to attempt to get up a scare on such a basis is a very short-sighted and foolish policy.

It is quite probable that Western Europe will have more or less trouble with cholera for several months, and perhaps for a year to come, and it is quite possible—we may say that it is an even chance—that we shall have some local outbreaks of the disease to deal with ourselves within a short time, but these probabilities do not make it necessary or expedient to interfere with the importation of either raw material or manufactured goods, whether these be intended for consumption or exhibit—with the exception of rags, and even these, so far as cholera is concerned, are easily disinfected. Let Chicago look to her water supply and to the possibility of a few cholera cases in her poorer quarters among newly arrived immigrants, coming, perhaps, by way of Canada, and let the American government devote its attention to our quarantine systems, and leave the world's fair to take care of itself.—Engineering Record.

FOR BILLSOF FARE.

What Some People Can Do in the Way of Cooking.

Young wasp grubs fried in butter do not at first sight appear to be the most alluring dish in the world, yet they have been pronounced delicious by those hardy experimenters who have tried them. Fed as they are upon the sweetest juices drawn from fruit and flowers, they naturally possess a delicate flavor. Perhaps the best way to prepare them is to bake them in the comb. Incidental to experiments conducted by government experts respecting the edible qualities of insects, a number of trials were made of a beverage particularly novel, which might be termed "ant-ade."

A few hundred ants were crushed at a time in a mortar with a pestle, and the liquid from them, after being strained, was mixed, just like lemon juice, with water and sugar. The resulting beverage resembles lemonade so closely as to be scarcely distinguishable from it. The reason why is very easy to explain. Formic acid is the nearest approach to citric acid, which gives lemon juice its flavor, known to the chemist. In fact there is very little difference between them.

A while ago a St. Louis caterer made from grasshoppers a soup which was pronounced delicious by many people who were afforded an opportunity of tasting it. It closely resembles bisque. A learned professor treated some friends of his on one occasion to curry of grasshopper and grasshopper croquettes without informing them as to the nature of the banquet, but an unlucky hind leg discovered in one of the croquettes revealed the secret. Among the people of Java cockchafers are a favorite food.

These admirable economists, the Chinese, eat the chrysalis of silk worms after the silk has been wound off them, frying them in butter or lard, adding the yolk of an egg or two, and seasoning with pepper, salt and vinegar. It would require some courage to test for one's self the excellence of any of these dishes, and yet what may not be dared by a race which long ago discovered the edible properties of the eel and the oyster.—Table.

ALONE WITH A TARANTULA.

A Carondelet Girl's Presence of Mind Saves Her From the Spider's Fangs.

St. Louis, Oct. 8.—A Carondelet girl had a thrilling experience with a tarantula at her place of employment, and but for her remarkable presence of mind she would probably now be suffering from the insidious poison of the dreaded insect. Thanks to her courage and self-control, a fine specimen of the deadly creature may now be seen at the Knorr pharmacy, on South Broadway, in the contemplation of things earthly from within the slippery sides of a bottle. Miss Fanny Bartell is connected with one of the departments of the Gunn Fruit company, 938 and 940 North Third street, and while handling a small bunch of bananas espied the spider-like things creeping along one of the stems within a few inches of her hand. The room was crowded with fruit, and dozens of large bunches were suspended from the ceiling. There was no space by which she could drop or throw the bunch from her without incurring the danger of having the tarantula fall on her clothes, and for an instant she was almost paralyzed. Regaining her composure, she quickly twisted the stalk around and away from her, and, making a turn, she was able to step back along the narrow passageway and drop bananas and insect.

In a second more the bug would have fastened itself on her hand, and any thoughtless motion would assuredly have resulted in her being bitten. Miss Fanny realized that she was not quite free, and grabbed a stick that was standing near by. With this effective though not formidable weapon she managed to keep the tarantula away from her feet, and, retreating toward the closed door, she screamed. The door was quickly opened for her, and then thoughts of revenge seized her. She would preserve the monster as a souvenir of those awful moments in the crowded fruit warehouse. Some of the employes secured a big bottle, and with a stick she managed to cage it, her fellow workers standing at a respectful distance, trying to dissuade her. This bottle Miss Fanny carried to the home of her parents, at Broadway and Elwood street, and then it was taken to the drug store.

WAITERS WHO ARE FAITHFUL

A Little Brown Man Who Will Labor Only in a High-Toned Family.

The thousands of little brown men from the Mikado's kingdom who honor this city with their presence have made advertising an art, says the San Francisco Chronicle. They want to work and very few of them are particular what their labor may be so long as it may give them opportunity to satisfy their only apparent ambition—to study.

Centuries of servility and serfdom have bred in the little men a politeness that is akin to obsequiousness, and they express it as best they can with the poor English at their command. One is "a Japanese good schoolboy who wants a situation to stay for a long time and where he can get school time." He speaks English fluently, at least he tries to say so, and will give the pleasure of his company to whoever wishes it at the rate of $2 a week. Like his fellows, he is industrious, studious and plodding, and will pore over his books for hours. The "good home" which he prefers to "high wages" will undoubtedly reap advantage from his "cultivated mind" and entertaining conversation.

Another of his countrymen is "a gentle and faithful waiter," with the best of references, but he will work only in a small family. Still another is the "Japanese nice boy," who will cook breakfast and lunch, but draws the line at dinner—in view of the fact, probably, that his employer may need him to grace the board at the evening meal. Then there is the "Japanese strong boy," who will wash dishes for a consideration, and the "Japanese young and obedient boy," who wants a job anywhere from a ranch to a saloon.

There are scores of "Japanese reliable boys" who are "devoted exclusively" to all kinds of housecleaning, especially washing windows at 5 cents apiece, an alarming cut on current rates, very painful to the other "devotees" in that particular branch of labor.

They are all honest, careful, "nice," and hardly without exception offensively "well educated." They will cook, wash, clean and do all the various duties of the house. They will clean saloons, milk cows, make candy, work as carpenters or on ranches, and one particularly competent young man offers his obedience and services as a druggist. Work in the laundry possesses no power to frighten them, and many even will fight the temptation to study when they are pressed to go into the fields as laborers.

In various parts of the city they have established bureaus of information and employment offices where the unemployed congregate and compare notes on English composition.

Some, however, have been here long enough judging from their advertisements, to become particular. A few have the forethought to declare, in addition to their other qualifications, that they have experience and will work only in select families. One of them will take his chances only in a "high-toned" family. He fails to explain just what a high-toned family may be, but he announces that he is the happy possessor of a dress coat and good references. If anybody is seduced by that fact, the young Japanese will wait upon some "high-toned" table for a consideration not to be revealed to the public.

Another of his experienced fellows is well educated and will go only into a store or an office, or, by a strong effort in the direction of self-sacrifice, into a "nice family." The "want" columns are filled with the curious applications of the little men. Money with them is no object, agreeable surroundings all, and that is what they try to tell prospective employers, who probably have not the slightest interest in the fact.

HER DREAMS ENDED.

A Young Girl Secures Divorce From a Negro Cook Who Said He Was a Marquis.

San Diego, Oct. 8.—Nearly a year ago the American ship Invincible arrived at this port with a cargo of coal from Newcastle. On board was a dark-skinned, dapper little man in the thirties, who secured lodgings uptown. The landlady was the mother of a rather handsome blonde daughter, about 17, to whom the new lodger made violent love.

He told the girl his name was Vincente de Rampaz and that he was a French baron by direct descent and heir to a magnificent estate in France. He said his father ran away from home when young and married a Spanish girl in the West Indies, where he was born. He kept this sort of talk up for a few days and completely turned the girl's head.

He secured a license and the two went to a minister's house, but he refused to perform the ceremony, as he had doubts as to the race of the groom. The next day the couple returned with a lot of papers proving the truth of the groom's assertions of his parentage, and the two were married, but less than half an hour after the marriage the young bride left him and went straight home to mamma and tearfully told her story.

The cool-headed mother, aided by friends, secreted the girl at a friend's house in another part of the city, and when Rampaz demanded his bride he was met by a stern mother-in-law.

He created such a scene that police protection was asked. He was going to do awful things, to kill a whole lot of people or die himself, but he would have his bride. Next he was going to call on the French government to assist him, but he didn't. He changed his lodgings and loafed around the city awhile and then sailed with his ship. The story finally leaked out that the alleged baron was a West Indian negro and cook on board the ship.

He told his wife previous to his marriage that he was traveling incognito in order to more closely observe the customs of the country, which accounted for his arrival on the collier.

Immediately after his marriage he told her that he was the captain's cook. This statement awakened the bride from her dream of grand old chateaus and magnificent estates in France, and she quit him without further ceremony.

After a sufficient time had elapsed she began proceedings for divorce, which was granted.

BY NO MEANS.

"Dear me, Uncle Ephraim!" she exclaimed as she met the old gentleman in the hallway, "you don't know how surprised I am to see you. Did you travel all the way from Vermont alone?"

"Naw," he replied, deeply offended at the question, as he put his carpet bag down. "There were 40 or 50 people on the same train."—Judge.

PRESBYTERIANS.

Proceedings of the Meeting at Cambridge.

Cambridge, Oct. 7.—At the meeting of the Ohio Synod of the United Presbyterian church the first business of the morning was receiving reports from the general boards of the various church benevolences, which, after discussion, were passed down to the presbyteries without commendation. The case of John Gailey, who formerly preached at Millersburg, and who was deposed from the ministry for drunkenness, occupied a considerable portion of the day. The case came up on appeal from the Mansfield presbytery, where it had been pending for two years. It was not completed at the time of adjournment. In the evening a very interesting meeting was held in the interest of education, with addresses by Dr. Wilson, of Wooster; Rev. W. H. Vincent, D. D., of Detroit, and H. B. Hart, M. D., of Wooster. The church where the meetings are held is the largest in the city, and is filled at every session.

Fashions in Children's Clothes.

Mothers everywhere have solved the problem of how to keep their children well and fashionably dressed at small expense. It is through Diamond Dyes that so many children have clothes of fashionable brown, cardinal, or myrtle green. Little suits, cloaks, etc., are easily made from faded clothes, and when dyed no one could tell that they were not new.

GETTING READY

For a Mammoth Celebration on Columbus Day.

Meeting of the Arrangements Committee—Col. Bunker Elected Marshal—Sub-Committees Named.

Toledo will celebrate Columbus day in a manner that will be remembered for all time to come.

Proper interest in the preparation for the event has been manifest from the first call. Members of the various committees responded cheerfully and are diligently at work. Liberal contributions are being made, and from the present outlook there will be no difficulty in securing ample funds to commemorate the day as it should be.

Another enthusiastic meeting was held last evening at the mayor's office. There was a good attendance of representative citizens, and much business was transacted in a systematic manner.

Gen. J. W. Greene was chosen chairman and Arthur Campbell secretary, with members of the press as assistants.

Capt. James Austin stated that the preparation for the celebration of Columbus day had advanced to that stage when it was necessary to take steps to complete arrangements for the events of the day. The parade being the feature of the celebration, it would be wise to select a grand marshal, give him absolute control and ample time for preparation. It was moved that Col. H. S. Bunker be appointed grand marshal, which was carried unanimously, regardless of Col. Bunker's protestations.

Capt. George Roulet moved that Col. Bunker be authorized to invite all civic and military organizations to participate in the celebration.

Col. Bunker amended that the general arrangement committee issue an invitation to all such organizations in Toledo, and northwestern Ohio as well, to take part and report to the marshal for orders.

The motion as amended was approved, and the following resolution incorporating the sense of the motion adopted:

"Resolved, That all organizations, military and civic, including the schools, public and parochial, of northern Ohio, are hereby invited to participate in the celebration of Columbus day, October 21, in this city, and that each report to Col. H. S. Bunker, marshal of the day, Drummond block, Toledo, O., the number it can turn out on that day, and stating who will be in charge of its division."

Committee of Arrangements.

This resolution is a general invitation to all organizations, the schools, secret, marching, civic and military, and no formal invitation will be extended, nor must it be expected.

The committee will be glad to have every society in the city participate, and representatives will report to Col. Bunker as promptly as possible, per the following blank:

Toledo, O., Oct. ..., 1892.
Col. H. S. Bunker, Marshal of the Day, Columbian Celebration, Drummond Block, Toledo, O.:

Dear Sir: In response to the general invitation issued to civic societies to participate in the Columbian day parade in Toledo, I hereby state that the ———— of which I am ————, desires to take part in the celebration, and hereby reports for orders. Respectfully,

————

No. — street, ———, P. O., Ohio.

Fill out the above with the name of the organization of which you are the head and address the same to

COL. H. S. BUNKER,
Drummond Block, Toledo, O.

Secretary Campbell was instructed to inform passenger agents of the Toledo railroads of the celebration and request them to turn travel toward the Future Great on that day by inducements in the way of cheap rates and proper advertisements.

A motion was made that all business men of Toledo, merchants and manufacturers, be invited to make a display in the parade. This means a display that will reflect credit upon the record of Toledo's enterprise, not a continuation of empty wagons covered with advertisements. Toledo stands in the front ranks as a manufacturing center. Everykind of business known to trade is represented and if the proper interest is taken the business men of Toledo can make a display that will be interesting, instructive and advertise the Future Great as she has never been advertised before. The motion was seconded and carried unanimously.

Committees were appointed as follows:

Program—Wm. Beatty, H. S. Commager, Rev. E. Hannin, J. H. Puck and I. D. Smead.

Music—G. U. Roulet, J. Jacobi, Robert Sussman, W. H. H. Smith and W. A. Ogden.

Decorations—John Huberich, J. N. Mockett, John G. Mellink, P. H. Dowling, L. F. Lyttle.

Fireworks—L. M. Brown, L. S. Baumgardner, J. E. Gunckel, James Pheatt and W. J. Colburn.

The firing of a national salute was suggested; also that it would cost $21 for 21 shots. Gen. Greene offered to be one of five to pay the bill. He is waiting to hear from the other four.

The committee will endeavor to get the cycling club to give a lantern parade in the evening.

A meeting of all committees was called for Monday evening.

The finance committee will meet this evening.

HALF A MILLION INSURANCE

On a Man Who Committed Suicide.

William M. Runk Creates a Sensation in Philadelphia by Ending His Days.

Philadelphia, Oct. 7.—Wm. M. Runk, aged 46 years, a member of the large dry goods firm of Darlington, Runk & Co., a director of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance company and a wealthy and influential citizen of Philadelphia, committed suicide at his country home, at St. Davids, near here, at 8 o'clock last evening by shooting himself through the temple.

No cause can be ascribed. He carried $525,000 insurance on his life. He was at his place of business yesterday and appeared to be extremely nervous, as he had been for a day or two. Late in the afternoon he went to his home, and for two hours his wife noticed that he was irrational, but supposed it was due to some business trouble and gave it no special attention.

After sending one of his sons to the railroad station to meet an employe of the store he went to his stable and with a small Smith & Wesson revolver put a bullet through his temple, dying instantly. He was seen to go into the stable by the gardener, and a few minutes later was seen by the same person cold in death. The report of the pistol was not heard.

The news of the suicide did not reach this city until to-day, and because of the prominence of the victim, it spread rapidly. The deceased was very wealthy, his business is in fine shape and no cause can be ascribed for his action. The only theory is that his mind became unbalanced and during a fit of mental aberration he ended his life. He leaves two boys by his first wife, one of whom is at Yale and the other at the University of Pennsylvania, and three children by the second wife. His city home was 134 North Eighteenth street.

REGENERATION.

To secure a normal and regular tissue change throughout the body use Brandreth's Pills. This tissue metamorphosis consists in constantly proceeding waste of tissue and its regeneration. Brandreth's Pills are the best solvent of the products of disintegration of the tissues and increase their elasticity. They are an alterative and eliminative remedy, which allay irritation and remove obstruction by aiding nature and are of great benefit in cases of temporary and habitual constipation, torpid liver, biliousness, headache, indigestion, rheumatism and diseases arising from an impure state of the blood.

Brandreth's Pills are purely vegetable, absolutely harmless, and safe to take at any time.

WON BY FRANCE.

Frenchmen Secure a Victory Over the English.

Paris, Oct. 7.—The rowing match between the eight of the club of Parisian oarsmen, Cercle de L'Aviron, and the London rowing club's eight, took place on the Seine to-day over a two mile course between Conflans and Carrieres-Sous-Poissy.

The Frenchmen won easily by a length. The victorious crew consisted of Gros, bow; Brown, Cusin, Roudin, Delaet, Pettit, Leebvre, and Reuben, coxswain. They rowed in a boat made especially for the race. The challenge was sent by the Frenchmen. Both Englishmen and Frenchmen have been training industriously for some six weeks. The Englishmen were under the direction of Stilwell and were backed with considerable English money to win.

The result was a complete surprise to the English spectators as the English newspapers have criticised the Paris crew for their lack of staying powers and their inclination to lag too much over the feathering movement. The crews received mementoes of the race and the Frenchmen received a medal, work of art, or some other honorary prize to mark their victory.

KILLED BY THE WIRES.

Frightful Death in Springfield, Mass.

A Lineman Shocked to Death, Hangs Head Downward, Fifty Feet in the Air.

Springfield, Mass., Oct. 7.—Peter Berthiaume, 35 years old, a lineman for the United Electric Light company, was shocked to death to-day while making a cut-out at the top of a high pole. He grasped both ends of a live wire and received 2,000 volts. As he fell he cleared the wires so there was no burning except on the hands, but he caught on a pin and for half an hour hung head downward, 50 feet in the air. It was the first death of the kind in the city. The unfortunate man leaves a widow and three children.

EDWIN BOOTH.

His Daughter Says His Health is Improving.

Lakewood, N. J., Oct. 7.—Numerous inquiries were received at the Laurel house, where Edwin Booth is stopping, this morning, asking for the latest particulars as to the condition of the famous actor, and deploring the painful accident that befell him yesterday.

Mr. Booth kept his room all morning and no one was permitted to see him.

His daughter, however, informed a reporter of the United Press that her father's condition was such that there were no grounds for apprehension. She says that since her father's arrival in Lakewood his health has improved, and that she expects a complete recovery from his sojourn here.

SAW-MILL BURNED.

Tiffin, O., Oct. 7.—(Special)—A sawmill belonging to John Shedenhelm, located on Sam Hawk's farm near Sycamore, burned this morning. The loss is $2,000 and wipes out Shedenhelm's total possessions.

CONVINCING TESTIMONY.

"I was spending the night in a country town not long ago," said the drummer at the dinner table, "and in the evening, before bed time, several of the natives collected at the tavern and we sat around on the porch talking. One of the residents was telling me what a fine country they had about them.

"'Why,' he said, in all earnestness, 'Jack Blasy, who has a dairy farm 10 miles from town, gets 1,000,000 pounds of butter a week from his cows.'

"'Aw, come off,' I said, with a laugh, 'you can't make me believe any such stump speech as that.'

"'But it's true as preechin',' he insisted.

"I demurred again.

"'Ain't it so, Henry?' he asked, appealingly to an elderly man sitting next to me.

"'Well, I can't say as to a million poun's,' was the cautious reply, 'not just how much exactly, but I know Jack has got three saw mills on his place that he runs entirely with buttermilk.'

"There wasn't any use bucking against evidence of that sort and I never said a word."—Detroit Free Press.

IN THE MOONLIGHT.

The Shadow on the Top Notch Trail.

You couldn't stop a man from staking out a claim if the ground was not already covered, and so, though none of us liked the looks of this new chap who came in on us at Strawberry Hill, we couldn't gainsay his staking out and putting up a rude shanty. We soon discovered that his looks did not belie him. You'd expect to find some bad men in the mines, but this man, whom we soon nick-named Satan, was worse than any dozen of them put together. The way he would curse God and man was something awful to hear, and we sometimes wondered why the wrath of heaven was not visited upon him. We ostracised and outlawed him, but he would not go away. Only the fear that we would string him up kept him from doing murder, for he had a temper like a wild beast.

One day, after dinner, and after a spell at cursing and reviling, he went down into his claim and fired a blast, which blinded him forever. Then he became worse than before. His cursing and raving became so constant that we built him a shanty on the rocks half a mile away and led him to it. Three times a day a man was sent up with his meals, and this continued for weeks and weeks. For a long time there was no change in his health or disposition. Then he began to grow thin and wan and to cease cursing, and one evening he asked of the man who brought his meal:

"Jim, is thar a trail leading up here from camp?"

"No," was the reply.

"If anybody was comin' down the trail from Top Notch how would they hit me?"

"Why, strike across about 40 rods above camp."

"And the door faces that way?"

"Yes."

"How's the nights now, Jim?"

"Full moon and bright as day."

That was about all that was said, but I wish to tell you here that when Satan was blinded his eyelids were closed fast. He could never open them after that, except he used his fingers. There was an injury to the muscles controlling them as well as to his vision. Day and night were alike to him. On that very night, about half an hour after midnight, a prowling wolf disturbed our camp and routed out three or four men. They were driving the beast away, when they looked up and saw a shadow on Top Notch trail. It was as light as day, and there was no question in their minds. It was a queer shadow. It had the shape of a little old woman bent over with age, and it floated about in an uncertain way. The three or four men passed from tent to tent, and before long 60 or 70 of us were out and had our eyes fastened on the queer thing. By and by it floated over the rocks and shrubs toward Satan's shanty, and every man of us followed it to the door and beyond with his eyes.

"It's a woman—an old woman!" whispered a score of men.

"But what can a woman be doing here?"

One or two suggested that somebody go up to the shanty, but no one volunteered. There was something so queer and uncanny that nobody felt like making a closer investigation. It was perhaps ten minutes after the figure entered the shanty before it reappeared. It passed over the same ground, in the same peculiar way, and as it reached the trail it halted for a moment as if looking back. Our eyes followed it up the plain, broad trail until it grew fainter and fainter, and finally dissolved.

"What did it look like to you?" asked one man of another.

"A little old woman, bent and feeble," was the reply.

All had seen alike. You may ask why some one didn't pursue. No man had ever seen a living woman on that trail, or expected to. This was a woman, and yet it was not. Its presence cast an awe upon everybody. Some of the men returned to bed, and others gathered in groups and talked in whispers until daylight came. There were 50 men who went up in a crowd to Satan's shanty. They found him fully dressed and seated in the door, and he had been dead for hours. Perhaps you expected that, but let me tell you his eyes were wide open, his vision seemed to have returned, and he was looking across to Top Notch trail just as any living man would—aye, looking and looking, and his face had softened and a smile had crept over it and been held there by the fingers of death.

"It was the spirit of his mother!" whispered the men as they looked into the face of the dead man, and so we have ever believed.
